Helsinki Hospital Bombed; Russians Reported Fleeing

30 CIVILIANS SLAIN IN RAIDS ON CITIES; TRAINS ATTACKED

Soviet Retreat in Arctic
Said To Be on Major Scale; Finns Indicate Gain Onto Russian Soil.

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS.
HELSINKI, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Soviet Russia unleashed the might of its aerial armadas on embattled Finland anew today, bombing a Helsinki hospital zone, two civilian trains and scores of towns, while its land forces launched a heavy offensive on the Karelian isthmus.

At the end of the day the Finns asserted their lines on the isthmus were still "holding fast," but listed 30 civilians dead and many more wounded as a result of the aerial bombardment.

On the frozen marshes along the eastern frontier, an official communique said, Finnish forces "annihilated" two Russian battalions, while in the arctic their troops reported new gains.

(Report from northern Norway said a Russian retreat in the arctic sector also apparently was reaching major proportions. The Russians were reported 12 miles behind the lines they held south of Salmijarvi, the nickel-mining town, two days ago.)

From the vicinity of Lieska, about 125 miles north of Lake Ladoga and 20 miles from the Russian border, reports intimated the Finns had pushed into Soviet territory in beating back one Russian attack.

Battalion Destroyed.
A Finnish communique said a Russian battalion had been destroyed between Lieska and Repola, which is several miles inside the Soviet frontier. Authorities did not say how far east the Finnish counter attack had carried, however.

In their raid on Helsinki, the third in as many days, Russian warplanes dropped more than 30 bombs on a five-block hospital zone, damaging a dormitory, a school for the blind and seven other buildings. Two of the raiders were reported shot down.

Only two persons were injured and none was killed in the capital, but numerous deaths were listed in raids on other cities—including 16 at Janisjoki, five at Matkaselka, two at Sortavala and one at Mottomaki. The attackers were beaten off by Finnish pursuit planes and anti-aircraft fire.

Two passengers were reported killed when Russian planes swooped down and machine-gunned the Turku-Helsinki express, one of two passenger trains said to have been so attacked.

A dramatic story of the attack

She's the Lady Who Rules Clayton County

Miss A. L. Rutherford is the first woman ever to assume complete responsibility for the affairs of a Georgia county. By court order she is the Clayton County Board of Commissioners for Roads and Revenues. Her term will expire January 20, when a special election will name successors to the five commissioners recently turned out of office by malpractice proceedings against them. She is a native of Union Point.

U. S. WILL PROTEST 'ZONE' VIOLATION

Pan-American Republics
of European Warfare.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The 21 American republics who signed the Declaration of Panama, including the United States, will protest jointly to Europe's belligerent nations today or tomorrow against extension of warfare into the Pan-American neutrality "safety zone," it was authoritatively reported here late today.

Informants, usually reliable, said the protest probably would be announced in Washington or Panama, the seat of the permanent organization created at the Pan-American neutrality conference in October.

The protest, it was said, would be based on the running battle eight days ago off Uruguay's coast between the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers.

This battle was well within the "safety zone" limit drawn by the American republics around the American continents, within which the European belligerents were asked not to carry their warfare.

CONTROLLER APPOINTED.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Governor Hoke said today that William D. Carmichael Jr., New York city business man, had agreed to accept the post of controller of the University of North Carolina.

ATLANTA BUSINESS BOOMS AS NEVER BEFORE IN HISTORY

Bank Clearings for First 21 Days of December
Total $204,500,000; Were $191,900,000 Last Year.

By WILLARD COPE.
Atlanta business is booming as never before in the city's history. A careful survey of every representative sphere of commerce yesterday showed that records were being smashed in a manner to amaze even the most optimistic.

For example, bank clearings for the first 21 days of December—that is, through yesterday's close of business—were $204,500,000, as compared with $191,900,000 for the same period last year, and $122,500,000 for the same space of 1934.

Clearings for Day.
Yesterday's clearings were $14,600,000 as against $11,700,000 a year ago and $8,300,000 five years ago.

With retail establishments to the limit, department store sales were reported reliably at from four to nine per cent greater than the phenomenal figures of last year.

One establishment found its business was 13 to 14 per cent greater than for the same period last year, and 44 per cent higher than in the 1934 period; while another store's figures for December's first three weeks of this year were 62 per cent larger than for the 1934 corresponding time.

Power Consumption.
Kilowatt hour consumption of electricity in the Atlanta area alone proved the same thesis. The 1939 figure, estimated, stood at 361 million, as compared with 322 million last year and 214 million in 1934. Customers of all types numbered 89,000 as compared with 84,700 in 1939, and 70,800 in 1934.

Transportation companies told the same story of prosperity.

A spokesman for the railroads found that travel for the first three weeks of this month had increased between 30 and 35 per cent over last year's figures for the same period. Additional cars and sections were being added to trains; but, thus far, no additional whole trains had been scheduled.

Bus-line officials said they were doing all the business they could "say grace over" and that it appeared to be constantly increasing. Not only the holiday season, but open weather and improved service were said to be responsible, but it was agreed that the spending was going on at a most pointing at him. That tradition was set for our own navy by John Paul Jones. It is to go on fighting while you have a gun that will fire and a deck under you.

So you do not have to inquire far among our own naval officers to find all agree that, on this basis, no amount of explaining about the conduct of the Admiral Graf Spee will explain. She did not continue the battle, but ran for refuge in a neutral port.

The Graf Spee may have had her fire control tower wrecked.

Naval History Holds No Greater Humiliation Than, or Such Personal Tragedy as, That of Captain
Langsdorff, Military Expert Declares.

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Naval history holds no greater humiliation than, or such personal tragedy as, that of Captain Hans Langsdorff. As he saw it, there was no other recourse except to pull the trigger on himself. It was oblivion and the only expiation he could make.

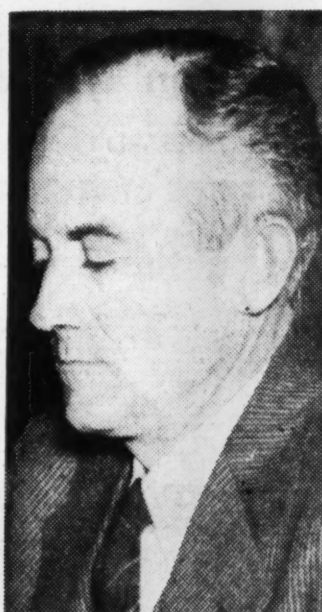

At 45 he might have had another 20 or even 30 years of life. But in no hiding place could his memory escape the mocking finger of centuries of naval tradition, ever

Three Opportunity Groups Win 'New Life,' But Others Need Aid

Anonymous Gift of $1,875
Restores Hope to Tragic Homes.

By FRANK DRAKE.
An anonymous gift of $1,875.11 came to The Constitution yesterday, to gladden the Christmas of three needy families and to give them the opportunity to fight their own ways back to security during 1940.

The money will mean a chance to become self-supporting for Opportunity Families No. 13, No. 14, and No. 15, all of them now in desperate plight.

But their privation and need is no greater than the needs of Opportunities No. 17, No. 18, No. 19 and No. 20, whose tragic stories are told in an adjoining column this morning. These families are temporarily down, but every one of them has a chance of winning out if only they receive a little help when they need it most.

The anonymous gift is great. It will do great good for these three

Here Are the Tragic Lives: What Will You Do To Help?

There are hundreds of families in this big city, Atlantans, who need but the lift of a helping hand to beat Fate at his ghastly game of death, desertion, illness and injury, and to become (instead of relief roll names) respected and self-respecting citizens.

These families are your Christmas Opportunities, and we want you to read the brief stories of Opportunities No. 17, No. 18, No. 19, and No. 20, which appear today in this column.

Tragedy, stark and horrible, is behind these words that tell the stories. You've seen such families in distress and you've known that many of them could be rehabilitated if enough money was provided to tide them over the toughest spots. That is what the Ten Opportunity fund does. The dollars and the pennies you give at Christmas time are the hands which help these stricken families to their feet during the next year. So, read, and give what you can. You'll be a Santa Claus to the neediest families in the city every day of 1940 if you give!

EMANUELE VISITS POPE FIRST TIME

Pontiff To Return Call
proved Relations Cited.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 21.—(AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena gave evidence of the improved relations between Italy and the Holy See today by paying Pope Pius XII a ceremonial call on their first visit to the Vatican in ten years.

Soon afterward it was announced that a week from today the Pope would go to the Quirinal palace to return the visit, making the first call by a Pontiff on an Italian king since the unification of Italy 69 years ago.

Greets Visitors Warmly
The Pope greeted the King and Queen warmly, and congratulated them on Italy's remaining out of the war. He invoked heaven's guidance that the Italian people might deserve "not only internal and external peace but also the establishment of an honorable and lasting peace among peoples."

Pope Pius XI, who ended the voluntary "imprisonment" of Popes within the Vatican under the Lateran treaties of 1929, was visited by the King and Queen after the signing. He sent his secretary of state to return the call, however.

The Quirinal palace, where the Pope will go to meet the Italian rulers, once was occupied by the Popes themselves when they ruled Rome and had powers now belonging to the Italian King.

From 1870, when Italian troops occupied Rome, until 1929 Popes had considered themselves "prisoners" in the Vatican. As a protest against loss of their temporal

Florida Witnesses Claim

Dumping Cargo.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The harassed German freighter Arauca faced a new investigation tonight into reports she was carrying arms and ammunition when accosted by a British cruiser Tuesday off the lower Florida coast.

The coast guard sought to question witnesses along the shore who claimed to have watched through binoculars as the Arauca dumped several large objects overboard while she raced to port and eluded the cruiser Orion by a few minutes.

If the objects proved to be guns, the Nazi vessel might be classed as a warship and be forced to leave Port Everglades, where she took refuge. Authorities assured her permission to stay here indefinitely so long as she was classed as a harmless merchantman.

The new investigation came to light not long after it was learned that the United States and other American nations would protest to European belligerents against warlike activities, such as the Arauca incident, within the American neutrality zone.

Already the coast guard had

Harrington Says He Will

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, told his press conference today that the general relief picture was improving and he would not ask for an emergency appropriation for the remainder of the fiscal year.

(Congress appropriated $1,477,000,000 for the WPA for the fiscal year which began July 1 and ends next June 30.)

Despite some bad local spots, Harrington said, the national relief situation is better because of an upturn in private employment

Red Paper's Critic Seorns 'Pan Gone With Wind' Order

Daily Worker's Reviewer Resigns Rather Than Rewrite Story; Declares Board Told Him to Urge Boycott of Film.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Howard Rushmore, motion picture reviewer of the Daily Worker, Communist party newspaper, said tonight he was out of a job because he refused to pan "Gone With the Wind."

Rushmore said he described the film of the old south as a "magificent bore" in his review as a concession to Communist ideology, but that this did not satisfy the editorial board.

He quit when the board insisted he rewrite his review and call on readers to boycott the $4,000,000 movie, he said.

"I do not weep tears for the fallen southern aristocracy," said Rushmore, a third generation American whose grandfather was a Confederate soldier.

"As a compromise I asked a board member if I could at least praise the producing and acting. His reply was that we praise nothing about this picture and that the most I could say was that Vivien Leigh and other stars were forced to appear in such a reactionary picture."

Rushmore said that as critic for the Daily Worker he received $25 a week, but that he had not been paid since the signing of the Hitler-Stalin pact.

For your convenience, the recipes for dishes mentioned in menus are given herewith:

Oyster Bisque
2 cups chopped oysters, (1 pint).
3 cups water.
4 cups milk.
1-4 cup chopped celery.
2 tablespoons minced parsley.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons margarine.
3 tablespoons flour.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.

Mix oysters and water, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Mix milk, celery, parsley and onions and simmer, covered 10 minutes; strain and mix with the margarine which has been blended with the flour. Add to this the oyster mixture and cook over low fire a few minutes, until slightly thick and steaming. Serve in hot cups and sprinkle each with paprika. A few grains of popped corn may top each serving.

Christmas Wreath Salad
2 cups cubed cooked beets.
1-2 cup diced celery.
2 tablespoons chopped "green" peppers.
1-3 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup granulated sugar.
1-2 cup vinegar.
2 cups boiling water or beet juice.
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.

Picture of Life Gray Heroes Led Is Sought

It is probably the "Gone With the Wind" influence.

At any rate, an 83-year-old man who lives in Texas, writes to Atlanta for help in locating a book of old Confederate songs, if such a publication exists.

Writing from Cooper, Texas, B. F. Clark, son of a Confederate soldier who died in action, says in a letter to The Constitution that he wants to know more about his father and the kind of life he led in the army. Hence, the request for Confederate songs, which he feels will give him a picture of the life of the times.

1-4 cup cold water.
Simmer for 3 minutes the salt, sugar, vinegar and boiling water or beet juice. Pour this over the gelatin which has been soaked 3 minutes in the cold water. Mix thoroughly. Cool and add other ingredients. Pour into ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold on a bed of lettuce or endive. Fill center with salad dressing and surround with cream cheese mixed with a little chopped green pepper.

Baked Fruit and Yams
3 cups sliced sweet potatoes.
2 cups sliced apples.
1-2 cup apricots.
3 tablespoons margarine, melted.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
1-4 cup dark brown sugar.
1-2 cup water.
4 lemon slices.
2 slices bacon.
Mix potatoes, apples, apricots, margarine, salt, paprika and sugar. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Add the water and top with the lemon. Cover and bake for 45 minutes in moderate oven. Uncover, place bacon on top and bake 15 minutes longer.

Brings Tidings of Great Joy to Ohio's Poor

John Owens, head of the Ohio United Mine Workers, leaves the White House after a conference with President Roosevelt. The chief executive declared, Owens said, that army soup kitchens will be sent into Ohio to feed the poor if local authorities fail to provide sufficient unemployment relief.

Army Soup Kitchens May Rumble Into Ohio If Local Relief Fails

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt will send army soup kitchens into Ohio to feed the poor if the local communities fail to provide adequate unemployment relief. Owen spent 30 minutes with the President and emerged with a three-page statement in which he (Owen) castigated the relief policies of Ohio's governor, John W. Bricker, and charged that the state and local governments in Ohio were spending only $5 per month per person for relief, or about five cents per meal—"less than appropriated to feed stray dogs."

Roosevelt reiterated, however, that it is the duty of the communities and states to care for the unemployed.

Bricker, and charged that the state and local governments in Ohio were spending only $5 per month per person for relief, or about five cents per meal—"less than appropriated to feed stray dogs."

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early confirmed Owen's statement, pointing out that it is the policy of the administration to prevent anyone starving and to make work for those who can work. Mr.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Christmas Pie.

Submitted by Mrs. G. S. Partridge, Rt. 1, Norcross, Ga.

6 eggs, (yolks)
1 cup nut meats, ground
1 cup raisins
1 cup coconut
1 cup melted butter
2 cups sugar
1 cup milk

Mix all ingredients, and cook over low fire until thick. Line two nine-inch pie plates with pastry. Divide mixture between the two and strip the tops with pastry lattice fashion. Bake in moderate oven.

Christmas Cakes.

(An old German recipe)

Submitted by Mrs. S. O. Graham, 204 West Main St., Dothan, Ala.

7 eggs, (save two whites for icing)
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup molasses
1 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon each of cloves, allspice, and cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder

1 cup chopped nuts
1-2 cup citron, chopped
1-2 cup orange rind, chopped
3 cups flour
1-4 pound butter, melted
Beat eggs well, add sugar and molasses. Sift dry ingredients together three times and add to egg mixture. Add nuts, citron, orange rind and melted butter and mix well. Spread thin layer in well greased pans and bake 30 minutes in moderately slow oven, 350 degrees. Cut in squares and frost with seven-minute icing.

Sweet Potato Puffs.

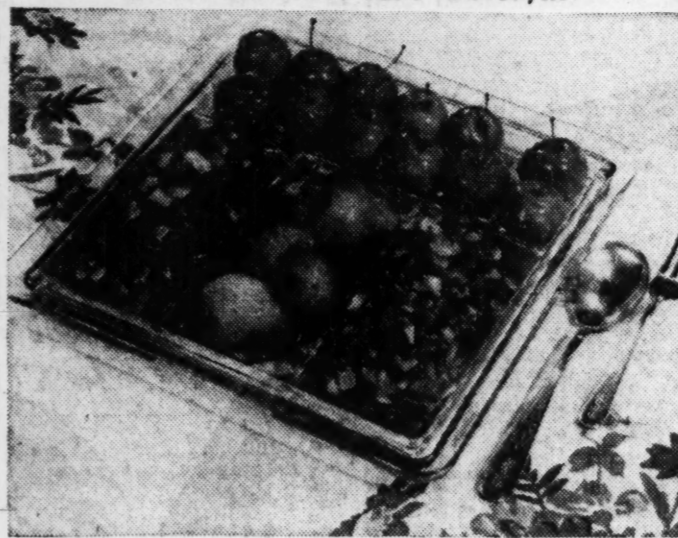

Submitted by Mrs. Frank Singleton, Draketown, Ga.

2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1 egg, beaten
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
8 marshmallows
1-2 cup crushed corn flakes

To potatoes add seasonings. If mixture is dry moisten with milk. Form into eight balls with a marshmallow inside each. Roll in crushed flakes and deep-fat fry in hot fat. When a golden brown drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot.

A prize of $1 each is awarded for recipes printed in this column every Friday. Address your recipes to The Constitution or to Sally Saver.

LINDBERGH RETIRES, MAY LIVE ABROAD

Lone Eagle Is Quiet on Plans; Successor Is Named.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, it was reported today, may leave the United States once more to live abroad.

Persons in touch with aeronautical affairs said they understood the flier was contemplating such a move. There was no word, however, from Lindbergh himself.

The reports circulated after it became known that Lindbergh had retired from membership on the national advisory committee for aeronautics. The White House announced the appointment of Brigadier General Walter G. Kiltner, retired assistant chief of the air corps, to succeed Lindbergh on the committee.

John F. Victory, committee secretary, said: "Some months ago Colonel Lindbergh indicated to the committee that he could not in the future devote as much time to the committee's affairs as he had in the past and suggested that he be replaced on the committee by a member who could devote more time to the committee's activities."

GEORGIA CAVALRY CAMP SITE CHOSEN

University Horsemen Will Go to Oglethorpe.

Cavalry detachment of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University of Georgia will spend its summer training period at Fort Oglethorpe, Fourth Corps Area headquarters announced yesterday. The encampment will begin June 7 and continue through July 18.

Other summer ROTC courses to be held at the same time in the corps area include the University of Alabama, coast artillery, at Fort Barrancas, Fla.; University of Florida, field artillery, engineering and signal corps, at Fort Benning, and the University of Tennessee, infantry, at Fort McClellan, Ala.

KNOX M. WALKER GETS SCHOOL POST

Named Regional Chairman of Administrators.

Knox M. Walker, Fulton county school supervisor, has been appointed regional chairman for the Georgia Association of School Administrators, Superintendent L. D. Haske, of Monroe, president of the Georgia organization, announced yesterday.

Walker's position will be to establish closer contact between the citizens of Georgia and the public schools of the state.

Walker was former superintendent of schools at Dublin and has been general supervisor for the Fulton county school system since 1932.

INCREASE REPORTED IN COTTON SPINNING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Census Bureau reported today the cotton spinning industry operated during November at 101.3 per cent of capacity, on a two-shift, 80-hour week basis, compared with 97.9 per cent during October this year, and 83.4 per cent during November last year.

Spinning spindles in place November 30 totaled 24,937,218, of which 22,774,170 were active at some time during the month, compared with 25,081,048 and 22,658,994 for October this year, and 26,048,734 and 22,449,280 for November last year.

Active spindle hours for November totaled 8,803,810, or an average of 353 hours per spindle in place, compared with 8,580,693,976 and 342 for October this year, and 7,575,193,064 and 291 for November last year.

LORD SHUTTLEWORTH SUCCEEDS IN LONDON

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Lord Shuttleworth, a member of Parliament under 12 prime ministers, died yesterday two days after his 95th birthday.

He became a member of Parliament 70 years ago, held his first ministerial post 53 years ago and was a privy counselor for half a century.

He was a friend of William E. Gladstone, British statesman of the last century, and left the House of Commons when he received a baronetcy during the coronation honors of Edward VII, grandfather of King George VI, in 1902.

THAT BUCK'S COMING! MAKE FOR THE TREES!

BUTLER, N. J., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Take it from Winfred Turk and Lawton Struble, there's a deer in the woods near Echo lake that can take care of itself.

Struble and Turk came upon an eight-point buck yesterday, but before they could do anything about it, the animal lowered its head and made for Turk. He climbed the nearest tree.

The buck then turned on Struble, who had taken aim with his shotgun but found the shells faulty. Up another tree went Struble. The deer went on its way.

'STUDIOUS' COD GIVES FISH-FREEZING DATA

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—And now comes the story of the studious cod.

The Boston trawler Arlington, arriving at the fish pier today, reported hauling in a 20-pound cod and discovering lodged in its mouth a school notebook, three inches wide and six inches long. In the notebook was the name "Molo Luigi Razza," and data on freezing fish. The cod was caught south of Cape Cod.

SERVES SIX YEARS, GEORGIAN IS FREED

Alabama Board Believes Goocher Guiltless.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 21. (AP)—A Georgian who has served six years of a life sentence on a murder conviction was freed today by the Alabama pardons and paroles board, which said it was convinced by testimony coming to light since the trial that the man was not guilty.

The parole went to Otis Goocher, who, at the age of 23, was convicted in Elmore county in 1933 of first degree murder in the death of Fountain L. Fletcher.

A number of officials connected with the trial, the board said, supplied information on which it concluded Goocher was not guilty. The man's home is Blakely, Ga., and the board said he would work for his former employer on highway construction at Pelham, Ga.

GALLOGLY RETURN TO TATNALL BY FEBRUARY 1 SEEN

Arnall Confident State Will Win Last of Five Appeals Made by the Georgia Life Termers.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall predicted yesterday that Richard Gallogly, escaped Georgia life-termer now in jail in Texas, would be in Tattall prison by February 1 and announced he would go to Texas himself to argue the last of five appeals made by the prisoner to escape return to Georgia. The state to date has won four decisions in its effort to bring back the prisoner. The most recent was Wednesday. The state, represented by the attorney general, won an extradition hearing before the Texas governor; then Gallogly's habeas corpus plea was denied by the Dallas circuit court; the state defeated Gallogly's effort to obtain bail while in jail, and Wednesday the Texas court of criminal appeals held with the state that no bail should be allowed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Red Cross announced today contributions totaling $40,000 for relief work in Poland. The Polish National Alliance gave $30,000 and the Polish-American Council, $10,000. Since the war began, the Red Cross has received over $300,000 for Polish relief.

EXCLUSIVE

Louisiana Run-Off, If

Gallup Poll Shows Long and Jones Running Neck and Neck.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 21.—The eyes of the nation will be focused on Louisiana next month when the Long political machine will face a crucial test of strength in one of the hottest gubernatorial primary fights of the year.

The American Institute of Public Opinion has completed a survey of political sentiment throughout Louisiana, including a study of the popularity of the five candidates running for governor. Although the results are in no sense to be taken as a forecast, they indicate there is fair chance that the Long machine may be defeated.

The investigation, state-wide in scope, was conducted by the same methods used by the Institute in forecasting four southern primaries last year with an average error of less than 2 per cent. A staff of trained interviewers in Louisiana covered 31 of the state's 64 parishes and talked to more than 2,500 citizens in all walks of life.

No Election Prediction.

The Institute makes no prediction as to the outcome of the election, however. Polls can be accurate only where elections are honestly conducted, and where the people vote without coercion or special inducement.

The Institute reports herewith sentiment as it was found in the survey completed December 15.

At that time there were five candidates in the field: Huey Long's brother Earl Long, the present incumbent and head of the Long political organization; Attorney Sam Jones, an independent candidate with business backing; Jimmy Noe, former Huey Long supporter but an opponent of the present regime of Earl Long; Vincent K. Moseley, a Harvard law graduate, and James H. Morrison.

The Institute survey found Long and Jones running neck-and-neck in popularity among the 2,500 voters interviewed. The actual results were:

Long, 34 per cent; Jones, 34 per cent; Noe, 20 per cent; Morrison, 10 per cent, and Moseley, 2 per cent.

Thus, if an honest election had been held in early December, and if the Institute survey results are as accurate as they have been in other southern primaries, the election would have been so close as to require a run-off.

By Louisiana law a run-off election is held if no one candidate polls a majority of the total vote cast. In a second question in its survey, the Institute asked voters how they would choose between Jones and Long in case of a run-off.

The results showed a lead for Jones. He polled 58 per cent, as against 42 per cent for Long.

WOMAN IS NAMED BOSS OF CLAYTON

Rutherford temporary guardian until a special election could be held January 20.

Miss Rutherford has been clerk of the board since last January 1 and now, along with her duties as delinquent tax collector, she has sole charge of Clayton county's $100,000 annual budget, is responsible for the maintenance of highways and prison camps, and in general must see that affairs run smoothly.

In appointing her as a one-person board, Judge Davis told the court, "I am certain Miss Rutherford is capable of holding the county together until new officials can be elected."

Miss Rutherford is a native of Union Point, and for eight years was cashier of the Bank of Hampton. Another eight years was spent as secretary to Claude H. Hutchinson and his bag and tre company. In 1927 she went to Jonesboro. Four years later Miss Rutherford entered upon the county scene as clerk for the board of commissioners.

A Deputy Sheriff.

This post she held until 1937, when she became a deputy sheriff in charge of tax collections under former Sheriff E. L. Adamson. When Sheriff Adamson was removed from office in May, of 1938, she went right on collecting taxes until the first of this year. Then the board of commissioners hired her as clerk. Now she herself is the board of commissioners.

Her first day yesterday netted nothing but complaints. "I have a dozen requests for mudholes to be filled," she said. "I just promise them we'll do something about it, and hope they don't come back until February."

She said she found the county in good financial shape, adding: "We don't owe any debts. Warrants have been issued for everything due. I don't see any reason to call myself into a meeting until I turn the office over to the new commissioners in February."

Asked if she would be a candidate in the special election, she said, "My public life is nearing completion. I think I shall retire when my term expires. The work is too hard."

Won't Tell Age.

County checks will be signed "A. L. Rutherford," the same name that appears on her office door and gives visitors a start when they find the deputy sheriff E. "Miss" Rutherford. The initials,

Chief Hornsby Gets Shotgun From His Men

Chief Hornsby yesterday was presented a 16-gauge repeating shotgun by members of the Atlanta police department as a Christmas gift.

In making the presentation in behalf of the department, Captain G. Neal Ellis said: "We want you to know that it is from all of us and we don't know a man we would rather give it to. If you keep on like you have been doing you will go down in Atlanta history as the best chief we've ever had."

The gun has a silver scroll mounted on the hand-made, curled maple stock and bears Chief Hornsby's name. It was encased in a leather holster.

after some argument, stand for Amah Lee.

Middle-aged in a chronological sense, she refuses, however, to state her age or weight except "under 50 and under 150."

Commissioner Rutherford is impressed by the sudden responsibility placed on her by the superior court. She is familiar enough with the routine "to do it in her sleep." But she is not the type to worry in her sleep.

Clayton residents expect county business will hum during the next four weeks and, with that feminine touch, will come out of the wash spick and span.

A. H. SHULER CASE LEFT TO COURT BY BOARD

SPECIAL THE CONSTITUTION. GRIFFIN, Ga., Dec. 21.—The Spaulding county board of education has voted to take no action in connection with investigation of charges against Superintendent A. H. Shuler, of the Spaulding county schools, and will leave the matter to be decided during the February term of superior court.

Superintendent Shuler was indicted on an embezzlement charge at a special grand jury meeting in November. The indictment charged him specifically with having diverted less than $200 to his personal use.

GEORGIA PECAN TREE PAYS FARMER'S TAXES

OGLETHORPE, Ga., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Farmer Alva B. Robinson never worries about paying taxes. He just picks some nuts.

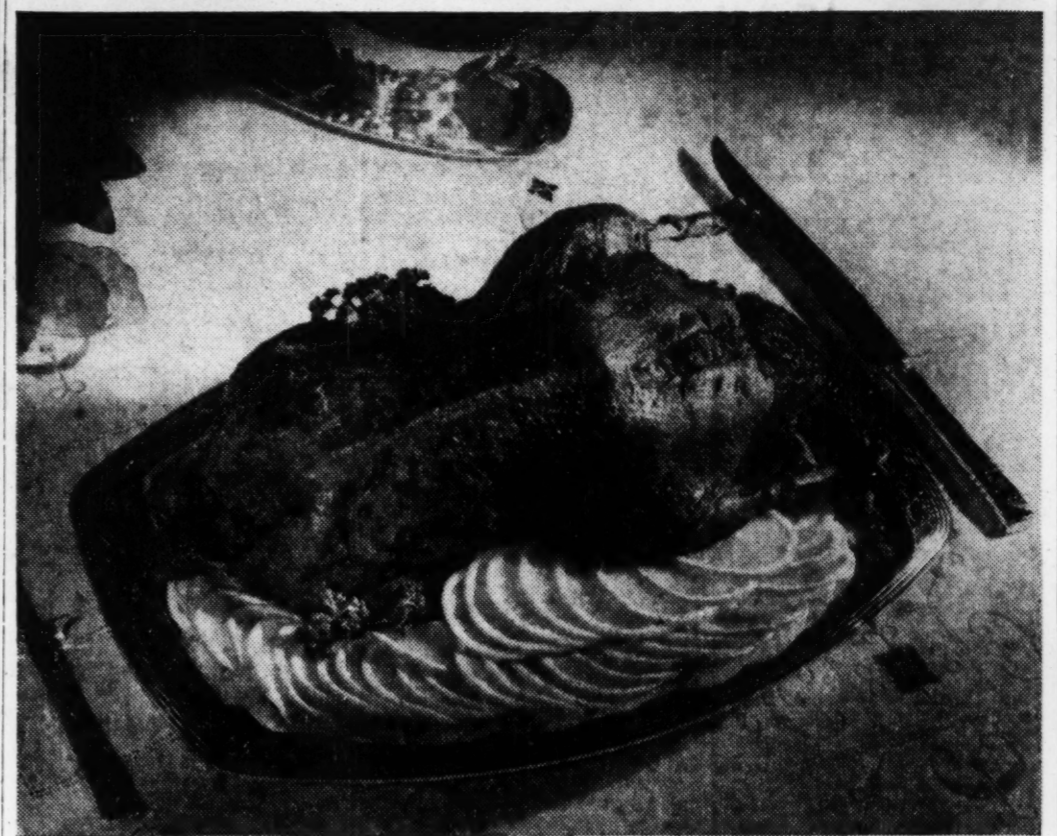

His backyard pecan tree, 50 years old and "still going strong," has paid his taxes for 25 years.

One year its yield was worth $145.

DECATUR CIVITANS PLAN ACTIVE YEAR

Reorganization Program Is Mapped, Members Vote to Name Secretary.

Decatur Civitans launched a reorganization program yesterday afternoon at their regular weekly meeting which, according to President Wheat Williams, will make the group one of the most active Civitan bodies in the state.

Members voted to elect a permanent executive secretary, who will take charge of the club's routine business. To nominate the secretary at the next meeting is a committee composed of Claude Blount, R. B. Cunningham and A. M. Chandler.

A steering committee to introduce and develop Civitan projects was elected. It is now composed of T. J. Wood, Claude Smith, George Mew, Claude Blount and Alfred Newman. A. M. Chandler was elected secretary-treasurer.

New members inaugurated at yesterday's meeting included E. J. Striplin, Ambrose Sharin and J. T. McMullen.

ICKES THREATENS THIRD PARTY MOVE

Precampaign Convention Is Planned to Organize Support for Liberal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A threat of a third party movement in 1940 if Republicans and Democrats nominate "reactionaries" was made openly today by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and less directly by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York.

Ickes said Liberals were considering calling a national convention some time before the presidential campaign to organize support for whichever major party nominated a Liberal. If neither chose such a man, he said, the Liberals might make a "sacrifice bid" by putting a third party in the field.

Since Ickes is an advocate of a third term for President Roosevelt, his remarks led to speculation whether he had in mind proposing Mr. Roosevelt for the third party standard bearer in case he did not become the Democratic candidate.

LaGuardia conferred with President Roosevelt and told reporters afterward that he had discussed with the chief executive the "necessity of giving the American people a chance to vote on real issues in the event the two parties take Siamese twins, cut them in two and each one takes half."

The people, he said, ought to have more than "a choice between tweed-dee and tweedle-dum."

Christmas Dinner Not Complete Without Roast Fowl, Baked Ham

By SALLY SAVER

It is only a matter of hours now until you'll be engaged in the delightful task of preparing the Christmas dinner! Good food, odors of pine and fir, happy faces of delighted recipients and givers of gifts, Yuletide carols, twinkling lights on a little Christmas tree—these are the Christmas scene.

Your Christmas dinner must live up to the reputation established for Christmas dinners. There must be a stuffed fowl or ham or both. A turkey, duck or chicken will be chosen, dependent upon the size of the dinner party, and usually a ham is cooked, too, in order to have cold slices on hand for supper or for drop-in company.

In my own childhood Christmas would not have been the wonderful day that it was without the great fresh ham which was roasted or boiled and sliced cold during the holidays. And to this very day Christmas seems incomplete without ham.

To roast a duck, chicken or turkey:

Clean thoroughly and wash inside and out with cold water, then dry thoroughly. Rub with salt inside and out. Fill cavity lightly with dressing, skewer or sew cavity and place fowl on a rack in an open roasting pan. Allow approximately 25 minutes a pound for duck or chicken and 18 to 20 minutes a pound for turkeys which are larger. Add no water to roasting pan, but a roasting foil, if inclined to be dry, may be basted frequently with a mixture of melted margarine and hot water; except duck, which is fattier and may be basted with orange juice or water. Roast in moderate oven, 325 to 350 degrees.

To roast a fresh pork ham:

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, rub it with salt and lay on rack in open roasting pan. Add no water. Allow 25 to 30 minutes a pound for roasting in moderately slow oven, 300 to 350 degrees.

Sausage stuffing for fowls:

6 cups fine, dry bread crumbs, 4 cups celery and leaves (about 1 small bunch), 1-4 cup minced onion, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon sage, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning.

INFORMAL DINNER TENDERED THREE STATE EDUCATORS

M. D. Mobley, Dr. M. D. Collins and Miss Jones Honored by Workers of Georgia Department.

Seventy-five employees of the Georgia department of education and the university system last night honored Dr. M. D. Collins, M. D. Mobley and Miss Sara Jones at a testimonial banquet in a downtown hotel.

Dr. Collins, state superintendent of schools, recently was elected president of the National Association of State School Superintendents.

Mr. Mobley, Georgia director of vocational education, was elected at the same time to the presidency of the National Association of State Directors in Vocational Education. Miss Jones, state library supervisor, has been named president of the Georgia Library Association.

The banquet, which was informal and offered no definite program other than the introduction of the honored guests, was presided over by M. E. Thompson, assistant state school superintendent.

If you want to keep it a secret, don't put it in The Constitution's Want Ads.

TRAGIC FAMILIES' NEEDS ARE CITED

hospital, leaving no one to care for Frances, and no money to pay for the child's board or keep her in school. That's where the Family Welfare Society and The Constitution's Ten Opportunities come in.

This family of two needs $25 a month. That need will continue until Mrs. E. is out of the hospital and has a job. She is perfectly capable of holding a job, and is experienced in her line. Family Welfare workers think she will have no great difficulty getting placed when she is recovered. What's to become of Frances while her mother is sick? That's up to you, Atlantans. For just a little you can assure this mother and daughter enough to live on until mother can get work. There's no time better than this Christmas to help this needy family. Surely, you will do it.

OPPORTUNITY NO. 18

There's a mother and a daughter in Atlanta who are both going to school.

They are Mrs. J. and daughter, Jane, age 8. And they are your Christmas Opportunity No. 18. Mrs. J. is a widow, and has been for several years. She has known her share of tragedy already, and now is just beginning to see the bright side of life again. She had been working on a WPA project for some time, but was laid off recently when many lost their only source of income. Some are merely waiting to get back on, but Mrs. J. isn't. She is resolved to earn her living in private employment. Already she has entered the Opportunity school here, and in less than six months will have finished her course of study.

Only $30.

She will be fitted to hold a paying job then and we believe she will get one. Until she does, she and Jane need $30 a month to keep them in school and in good health by having the proper food and good shelter. Don't you think it's profitable to you and the community to help Mrs. J. with her problem this Christmas? Donate a little. It will help!

OPPORTUNITY NO. 19

Mr. and Mrs. I. are a very young married couple with a brand-new baby. And no job.

But the problem which makes this group Opportunity No. 19 isn't just that. Mr. I. also has his mother to support. At present she is living with the young couple. Now mother love is a great thing, but sometimes it is slightly overdone. Mrs. I. Sr. sort of bosses the household which Mrs. I. Jr. feels is hers. And that leaves Mr. I. in a predicament which keeps him constantly upset.

Mother Problem.
The need for this family is $40 a month, only until he lands a job. With this amount and what he can earn in part-time work, Mr. I. can buy food and shelter for his own family and help Mrs. I. Sr. pay board in the home of friends. That would be the solution to the domestic problem. And we are sure Mr. I. will soon get work. He is very efficient.

OPPORTUNITY NO. 20

Forty-two dollars a month is the amount needed by Opportunity family No. 20 to win a touching battle against fate. Mrs. D. is the 28-year-old mother of two children, and also is the sole support of her mother, 54. Six years ago she divorced her husband, and he left the south. Until recently, intelligent Mrs. D. worked in Atlanta stores as a clerk and made enough money to support the family. They included 10-year-old Donney and eight-

Dark Horse in '40?

Charles Edison Considered
For White House

Assistant Navy Secretary Reported Liked by Businessmen.

By BETSY JAGER.

By the North American Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Some prominent Democrats in the national capital will tell you that, if you are looking for a real dark horse in the 1940 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, your candidate is Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy.

Edison's friends view him as the ideal compromise candidate who could carry out the humanitarian program of President Roosevelt along lines that would appease business and industry.

In considering Edison, party leaders are not overlooking the strong political asset of a name that is almost as intimately known at the firesides of America as that of President Roosevelt himself.

Edison has a record in business and in public service that already stamps the son of the famous wizard of electricity as a man of marked accomplishments.

He has packed into his 49 years varied and successful accomplishments in private business and in public affairs. Reared under the tutelage of his inventor father, young Edison early took over heavy responsibilities in the Edison industrial empire until a tour of inspection of Edison dealers in 1932 made him realize that constructive measures were necessary if this nation was ever to fulfill its natural destiny.

Since then he has occupied a

number of public offices in his state, New Jersey, and in the nation, refusing a senatorship. Later he abandoned his plans to return to private business and upon the insistence of President Roosevelt he became assistant secretary of the navy.

Edison regarded his possible candidacy for the Presidency with reticence. Until President Roosevelt has settled the third-term issue, no member of his official family feels at liberty to promote his own or any other person's candidacy.

"I am convinced that one of the primary tasks facing any administration is the provision of an opportunity for every man to work," Edison told this reporter.

More Atlantans Add Cash To 'Opportunity' Treasury

More "helping hands" for the neediest and most deserving families in the city came yesterday from Atlantans who are availing themselves of the opportunity to help families who honestly struggle to help themselves.

Christmas is so near! Hurry and give a little to aid the Opportunity families win their battles during 1940.

Add your name or initials to tomorrow's list of givers. Here are today's:

year-old Evelyn, who has been an invalid since birth. But she has just had to undergo a serious operation, and the doctors told her she can never stand long on her feet again. They advised work at which she could sit down.

Secretarial Course.
This brave woman already has started taking a secretarial course, because she has promised a job when she finishes. However, the family now does not have sufficient money to live on. Those $42 Atlantans could contribute would mean a new life for this mother and family. Mrs. D. is a real Christmas opportunity. Help her!

struggling families. But smaller gifts piled up together can do just as much. Can't you donate a little, so that it can be added to the gifts of other Atlantans to take care of some of the Opportunity families? There are so many mothers and fathers with children who could be helped to rehabilitate their whole lives if only Atlantans would see their need and give something this Christmas.

It doesn't matter what you give. A dollar, a dime, or many of both. Whether it's a penny or $1,000, the money could not be spent better than to be put to work helping the neediest families in the city who have a real chance to overcome their burdens and winning independence!

Total, a splendid $184

You see, Atlantans, how it can mount up to help the neediest families if you only will send or bring your donations to Hugh H. Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution, who is the treasurer of the Opportunity fund. Give before Christmas dawn on you, and be confident that every single cent you give will help the Opportunity families. Make this Christmas the happiest you and the Opportunity families ever had!

There are only two more days before Christmas. Although the Ten Opportunities helps families struggle back up the ladder the year round, all the Opportunity families whom Atlantans adopt by small or big contributions will be assured a happy Christmas, with toys for the children and food for all.

So, know that when you give to the Ten Opportunity families you are helping them to have a merry Christmas, but also to defeat their difficulties and earn their own way in life.

The A. family, Opportunity No. 13; Mr. R., who is Opportunity No. 14, and Mr. S. and his family, who are Opportunity No. 15, are grateful to the donor of the $1,875.11.

This money will provide Mrs. A. and her five children $65 a month until she obtains work. It will keep John A. in school for the year. Then he, too, will be in position to get a job and help support the family. More, it will hold the family together until it can be independent.

Cripple Helped.

Mr. R., who was permanently crippled in an auto accident, is assured that the $31 a month he and his wife and 4-year-old boy need will be forthcoming until he has readjusted his life by learning a trade at which he can work while sitting down. He was a painter-hanger and painter, but can do that no longer because his leg was crushed.

And Mr. S., Opportunity No. 15, whom fate has hit so hard, will have $60 a month to feed his family of five until he gathers his courage, and gets back into the work he used to do successfully. The depression demoralized him, but he has the ambition now to win out. Security for a while does wonders to a man's mind.

The Constitution, which presents the Christmas Opportunities every year in co-operation with the Family Welfare Society, is happy this morning that three more of the neediest but most deserving families in Atlanta are going to have the chance they've begged. This newspaper appreciates the gift of $1,875.11, and it thanks the donor. But there is still so much help that is needed!

7,000,000 SEALS ARE DISTRIBUTED

Tuberculosis Association Asks Public to Make Re- mittances Soon.

More than 7,000,000 Christmas seals have been distributed throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties by the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, and officials of the association urge residents of this section to send in their remittances as soon as possible.

Receipts from the sale are used to aid needy tuberculosis sufferers and to help carry on the fight against the disease.

Kendall Emerson, of New York, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, announced that more than a billion seals have been released throughout the world. The seal, according to Mr. Emerson, "not only stands for health, but serves also as a messenger of good will and sympathy for our fellowmen."

She Didn't Steal Him, the Court Decrees

Ruth Etting and Myrl Alderman upon returning from the elopement which caused the latter's ex-wife to seek $150,000 heart balm from the one-time torch singer. The plea was denied yesterday.

SINGER NOT GUILTY IN HEART BALM SUIT

Ruth Etting Absolved of Love Thief Charge; $150,- 000 Suit Is Killed.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Ruth Etting, the one-time torch singer who married her pianist, was absolved today of charges that in so doing she stole him from his second wife, Alma Alderman.

A judge's long-delayed decision in the $150,000 heart balm suit thus added one more chapter to a series of entangled romances which included:

Marriage of Miss Etting in 1922 to Martin (The Gimp) Snyder, who divorced his first wife to wed her.

Divorce of Miss Etting and Snyder November 30, 1937.

The shooting of the pianist Myrl Alderman at his Hollywood home October 15, 1938, by Snyder, who accused him of stealing Miss Etting's love.

Final divorce decree to Alderman and Alma Alderman December 5, 1938.

Elopement of Miss Etting and Alderman to Las Vegas, Nev., December 14, 1938, during the trial of Snyder for attempted murder.

Conviction of Snyder December 22, 1938, and his sentence to 20 years' imprisonment. (He won a reversal and right to a new trial recently.)

Alma Alderman's love theft suit, filed against Miss Etting June 14, 1939.

Alma Alderman accused Miss Etting of using money and fame to win Alderman, of holding "all-night trysts" with him, of meeting him at a frog ranch to carry on their romance.

Miss Etting, replying by deposition, said the romance was quite circumspect and began after Alderman ceased to love Alma.

Alderman's witnesses told of seeing him in romantic moments with other women, including the young girl, Dorothy Lamour, a bit of testimony which drew a heated denial from Miss Lamour.

Superior Judge Samuel R. Blake held there was no evidence that Alma Alderman "had been damaged in the sum of $75,000 or in any other sum."

Alma Alderman asked $75,000 actual and $75,000 punitive damages.

Judge Blake upheld the attack

of Miss Etting's attorneys on the validity of Alma Alderman's marriage. They contended it took place at Tijuana, Mexico, January 9, 1935, two days after Alderman's interlocutory divorce from his first wife, Helen. Under California law, a divorce decree does not become final for a year.

"There is no valid marriage of the plaintiff (Alma) and she was not Alderman's legal wife during the time of the alleged alienation," Judge Blake ruled. "An interlocutory decree which she had obtained from Alderman later was not binding on Miss Etting, who was free to act as a single person. Alma Alderman's attorneys plan an appeal."

COURT SAYS MILLER IS ROAD CHAIRMAN

was granted an injunction restraining efforts to oust him as highway chairman. Patten, Marvin Griffin, aide to Governor Rivers, and three capitol employees were found guilty of contempt of court in connection with the ejection of Miller from the chairman's office in the highway building.

Judge Smith noted that it was "important" that the decision set forth that the legal members, besides Miller, were Patten and Watson.

Terms Were Shifted.

When Rivers ousted Miller December 2, he shifted the terms of the three commissioners, giving the new member, Patten, the term of Watson for six years, Gillis the term of the ousted Miller for four years and Watson the two-year term which had been Gillis'.

Attorneys B. C. Murphy, of Atlanta, and C. A. Williams, of Atlanta, among counsel representing Gillis, Patten and Watson, insisted the mandamus petition sought to adjudicate the title of Gillis' office and said such action could not be tried before the tribunal but should go to a jury.

The court disagreed with this and said the defendants' contention that a vacancy was created as set out in Rivers' order, when he said Miller had resigned, amounted to "nothing."

Miller Undecided on Move.

After disposing of the mandamus petition, the bench called up arguments on Miller's quo warranto proceedings seeking to oust Patten from the board.

Murphy contended that the court had no jurisdiction of the mandamus proceeding because the pleadings set up a definite issue of fact which should be decided by a jury.

"Mr. Miller's petition says that no vacancy existed when Gillis was appointed (to the term held by Miller) and that is denied," Murphy asserted, "setting up an issue of fact that can't be decided by you judges."

HAILEY IS NAMED MEDICAL SOCIETY PRESIDENT-ELECT

Fulton Physicians Hold Annual Meeting, Hear Activity Reports; Vote on Unopposed Men.

Dr. Howard Hailey was named president-elect of the Fulton County Medical Society in an uncontested vote held yesterday, it was announced last night at the organization's annual meeting in the Academy of Medicine.

Other officials chosen, all without opposition, are Dr. Sam W. Perry, vice president; Dr. J. G. McDaniel, secretary-treasurer for three years; Dr. B. Russell Burke, member of the board of trustees for three years, and Dr. J. Calvin Weaver, a member of the judicial council for three years.

The three chosen from a list of 10 nominees for two-year terms as delegates to the Medical Association of Georgia are Dr. H. C. Sauls, Dr. Stephen T. Brown and Dr. W. E. Person.

Dr. Edgar H. Greene gave his address as retiring president at last night's meeting. He is to be succeeded by Dr. C. E. Rushin, who, with other new officers, will be installed at the anniversary banquet January 4 at the Druid Hills Golf Club.

The memorial address in honor of members of the society who died during 1939 was given by Dr. Charles E. Boynton Sr. Dr. W. S. Dorrough read the annual report of the judicial council, Dr. M. T. Harrison reported on his six-year term as secretary-treasurer, and Dr. J. T. Floyd, chairman of the board of trustees, reported on the board's transactions during the year.

East Point Firemen Will Compete With Santa Claus

Many a tiny tot will be the merrier this Christmas as the result of this year-round toy project of the East Point fire department. Working in their spare time, these six firemen, and one other, have constructed 250 toys and repaired 500 others. They will be distributed in time for Christmas. Left to right are George W. Allen, H. H. Henson, A. A. McKibben, Tom Carroll, Bill Starrett and Chief Max Wiggins. H. B. Christian, the seventh of the group, was absent when the picture was made.

RELIEF OUTLOOK BETTER--WPA HEAD

which has provided about 1,400,000 jobs during the last six months.

However, he said that a comprehensive view of the relief situation could not be expected until next April, and much then would depend on business improvement. He added that, depending on what business does, the situation could change very quickly.

Harrington characterized as a "typical Taberism" a recent charge by Representative Taber, Republican, New York, that WPA favored buildings for the well-to-do in Louisiana, and that a proposed lake front development was not a worth-while public development.

He said that WPA considered the lake front development worth-while as a public park, and as a site for USHA low-rent housing projects.

Refutes Taber

Taber's charge of WPA politics in Louisiana, he said, was unfounded.

"No where," he said, "have WPA officers stooped so low as to certify needy people for relief on a political basis."

Harrington said he disbelieved allegations that $1,000,000 had been misappropriated in Louisiana and added that investigations would continue until the last bit of evidence had been disclosed.

He said he was personally responsible for the allocation of work relief in Pennsylvania, and challenged critics to prove charges of political machinations with relief there.

He said that he referred to charges by Governor Arthur James of Pennsylvania that the state was not getting its share of WPA help because the national administration was trying to punish it for having Republican state administrations.

"These charges," Harrington said, "having risen since I took charge of WPA and I challenge their proof. I take full personal responsibility for WPA allocations. No one has told me how or when to make them."

LEGS DIAMOND'S DEATH EXPLAINED

Police Theory Holds Spitalo and Bitz Ordered Murder.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A police theory that the sentence of death which led eight years and three days ago to the assassination of Jack (Legs) Diamond was passed by Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bitz, sitting as an extraordinary court of the underworld, was brought to light today by the probation department.

In an official report to Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., which was presented in connection with Spitalo's appearance in court this morning, he was sentenced for larceny—to from five to ten years as it turned out—Chief Probation Officer Irving Halpern said police inquiry indicated that a dispute over $200,000 caused Diamond to be killed.

The spindly Diamond—called "The Clay Pigeon" for his singular ability at surviving the slugs which other gangsters had tossed at him off and on for years—was associated with Spitalo and Spitz in the narcotics trade, Halpern said, and at the turn of this decade had been entrusted with $200,000 to make purchases abroad for smuggling into the United States.

GEORGIANS TO TALK AT MIAMI MEETING

Journalism Parley Set for Dec. 29 and 30.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 21.—Six Georgia teachers of journalism, including three each from Emory University and University of Georgia, will address the annual convention of the Southeastern Association of Teachers of Journalism in Miami, December 29 and 30.

College journalism teachers representing eight southeastern states will attend the convention.

Representing the Georgia institutions will be: John E. Drewry, director of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, and Dyer E. Massey and Tys Butler of his staff; Raymond B. Nixon, head of the Emory University department of journalism, and George C. Seymour and Dowing B. Leatherwood of his staff.

DIVIDENDS ARE PAID BY MILLS IN NEWNAN

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 21.—Thousands of dollars earned by Newnan textile mills during the past year went out today to swell Newnan pocketbooks for Christmas and to increase holiday purchasing, as several local mills announced distribution of annual dividends to stockholders.

Among those declaring dividends at recent board meetings were Newnan Cotton Mills, operating two mills here, 3 per cent; the Arnall Mills, operating the Arno and Sargent Mills, 6 per cent, and McIntosh Mills, 3 per cent. The Grantville Mills pay a 5 per cent dividend January 1.

WORK WILL BEGIN ON DEKALB SEWER

Line Will Serve Area Between East Decatur and Avondale.

A DeKalb county-WPA sewer project, which will serve 300 families in the unincorporated area between East Decatur and Avondale Estates, will get under way December 28, Commissioner Scott Candler said yesterday.

The new line, running two miles, will serve residences on College avenue, Craigie street, Simpkins street, Arcadia street, Austin place and Zoar avenue. The project will begin at the East Decatur end. It will be completed in six months.

At an outlay of nearly $100,000, the sewer program will employ 250 men. Sponsored by DeKalb county, the project has been under consideration for several months.

STREET MARKERS VOTED
COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 21.—Installation of 451 street markers in Phenix City next year was voted by the Phenix City commissioners yesterday. The Jaycees are cooperating with the commissioners in this project.

Month of German War Diet Reduces White Five Pounds

Correspondent Adheres Strictly to Ration Though Given Extra Food Cards

By WILLIAM L. WHITE, Special Correspondent.
BERLIN (By Mail): I hit this town something short of a month ago and since then have been living on the standard German food card ration, although I could have taken an extra slug of meat and butter cards which the propaganda minister here passes out to all foreign newspapermen.

And now I can tell you what happens on this standard German diet. Since I have been here I look like a lot, but remember that at the Adlon or the Bristol I can have for my meagre meals a ample serving of huge broiled goose livers, or some chicken or a file of sole or a sea trout, because fish and fowl are not rationed.

Good Meal Costs $2.
However, in order to walk out of the Adlon or the Bristol with a comfortably full stomach at lunch your meal will have cost you not much less than $2, figuring the mark at its standard price of 40 cents, and if you have wine, of course, it will be more.

And at the Polka Dot cafe in Emporia, Kan., where I ate most of my lunches this summer for 33 cents, Bobb Dabbs will lay you out a tasty meal with the same nourishing ingredients.

Polka Dot Has Its Points.
But at the Polka Dot the cute little kid with the Joan Crawford hair-do is constantly walking between the tables with her tray of hot cornbread or hot rolls, all you want, free for the taking, and a cute little smile along with it, and if you use up all your butter on the hot cornbread, Bobb is sure to slide another couple of pats to you down the shiny counter, and no nonsense about how many bread cards or food cards or fat cards you can afford to lay out for this particular meal and still come out even at the end of the week.

NAZIS GAIN THIRD OF RUMANIA'S OIL

Trade Agreement May Contain Safety Guarantee.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 21.—(UP)—It was officially announced tonight that Germany and Rumania have signed a new trade agreement which gives Germany about one-third of Rumania's annual oil production. At the same time diplomats reaffirmed their conviction that Germany has given Rumania new assurances that her integrity will not be violated by any neighboring power, including the Reich.

The announcement was made jointly by the German and Rumanian trade commissions, and revealed that during 1940 Germany may receive 1,820,000 metric tons of Rumanian oil. A continuance of trade on the basis of a "clearing system" is provided.

Germany will receive Rumanian oil at the rate of 130,000 metric tons a month.

LEOPOLD ADLER ILL IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Hospital attendants reported today Leopold Adler, of Savannah, Ga., 78-year-old merchant and banker, was "doing very nicely" under treatment this week.

FINNISH HOSPITAL BOMBED BY REDS

on the express was given by Alex Maston, 51-year-old Finnish writer, who said the Soviet planes roared over the train at an altitude of 150 feet, their machine guns spitting.

Matson declared the express was crowded with refugees, some of whom had been taken from another train he said had been riddled with machine gun fire. "When our train was hit," he said, "the alarm was given and the passengers took to the woods. The conductor stayed behind, and how he finally got to the woods I don't know, but it must have been in an interval between the attacks."

The aerial attack on the hospital zone started at 11:58 a. m. (3:58 a. m., C. S. T.), following earlier raids on towns within a 25-mile radius of the capital.

Finland officials said that not all the bombs dropped exploded, but the hospital dormitory, a five-story brick structure, suffered a direct hit. The bomb ripped through the roof of the building, wrecked the two upper floors and tore out the front. Windows were broken over an area of a square mile.

Many Patients Removed.
Most of the hospital patients had been removed, but 10 were too ill to leave their beds. One of these was seriously injured.

The clinic building, a five-story stucco structure, and the school for the blind, a building four stories high and a block long, were heavily damaged.

One bomb which fell into the street outside the school for the blind left a six-foot crater in solid rock. Water and gas mains were broken, and power lines trailed over the debris strewn streets.

Dispatches to Oslo from Northern Norway said the Russian retreat northward toward the Arctic seaboard appeared to have reached considerable magnitude.

Observers were quoted as saying large Red army forces were falling back toward Salmijarvi, with the soldiers alternately riding trucks and walking in order to keep from freezing. The Finns were said to be in close pursuit.

Directly south of Salmijarvi the Russians were already 12 miles back from the fighting lines they had held two days ago.

The intense cold and the difficulty of transporting building materials for temporary shelter for the fighting men, it was stated, were as great obstacles to a Russian advance as was the Finnish resistance.

The Finns' ruthless destruction by fire of all houses in the path of the Red troops was proving a great hindrance to the Russians. Blizzards in the area have been accompanied by temperatures of 25 degrees below zero.

Continued heavy fighting was reported on the Karelian isthmus between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, where, the Finnish communiqué asserted, the Russians were beaten back with heavy losses yesterday in a day-long series of attacks. Finnish gunboats battered the Russian flanks on both sides of the lake.

Reds "Annihilated."
Further north, the communiqué reported two battles, in one of which a Soviet battalion was "annihilated" while in the other the Russians left 600 dead on the field.

On the Arctic front, Finnish troops were officially reported to have crossed the Jordan river and reached Hoyhenjari, a village near the Norwegian frontier and about 60 miles south of Finland's Arctic coast.

The Finns reported continued activity on the part of their own air force, which, the communiqué said, made "many reconnaissance flights and attacks far behind the enemy lines, dispersing and bombing enemy infantry detachments, columns of motor lorries and stores (supplies)."

Russian aerial attacks on military objectives were "insignificant," the Finnish communiqué said, the raiders being driven off by pursuit ships and anti-aircraft fire. At least six Russian planes

Red Bombs Scream Down on Helsinki's Hospitals

Gleaming white in the bomb sights of Russia's raiders, the super-modern hospitals of Helsinki made ideal targets for terror from the sky yesterday as Red wings roared over again. Some 30 missiles were dropped in the Finnish capital's medical area, heavily damaging a dormitory and a school for the blind and scoring hits on seven out of 10 other hospital buildings. No deaths and only two injuries were reported, however.

Stalin Pledges Workers' Revolt

MOSCOW, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Joseph V. Stalin, the Georgian shoe-maker's son, responded today to felicitations on his 60th birthday with a pledge that he is prepared to devote all his efforts and his life, if necessary, to the cause of the workers' revolution and world communism.

His only acknowledgment of the acclaim which Russians heaped upon him was to repeat his pledge of 10 years ago: "Do not doubt, my comrades, that I am ready to devote all my efforts and ability and, if necessary, all my blood, drop by drop, to the cause of the working class proletarian revolution and world communism."

More than 180,000 Russians heaped birthday honors on him but few could tell his age, whether he is married or anything about the life of the Kremlin's man of mystery.

The man whose will is the destiny of millions remained aloof from the acclaim, keeping to the privacy of his office behind the Kremlin walls and receiving only his most intimate friends.

The war in Finland was almost forgotten in the avalanche of tributes, except for a 25-word military communiqué.

Among the greetings received by the Soviet leader was one from Adolf Hitler, who sent "wishes for your personal well being."

Hitler sent the following telegram: "On your 60th birthday I beg you to accept my sincere congratulations. Herewith I send you my best wishes for your personal welfare as well as a happy future for the peoples of the friend of the Soviet Union."

Russian Cruiser Reported Sunk

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 22.—(Friday)—(AP)—The newspaper Politiken reported today that the Russian cruiser Kirov had sunk in the Baltic en route from Tallinn, Estonia, to Leningrad. No details were given. Previous reports that the 8,500-ton Kirov had been damaged were denied in Moscow, where officials said the cruiser's seven-inch guns easily outranged Finnish coastal batteries.

Belgians, Dutch Chase Planes

BRUSSELS, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Belgian and Dutch aerial patrols today engaged foreign planes which flew over various parts of the country and drove the aircraft across the frontier.

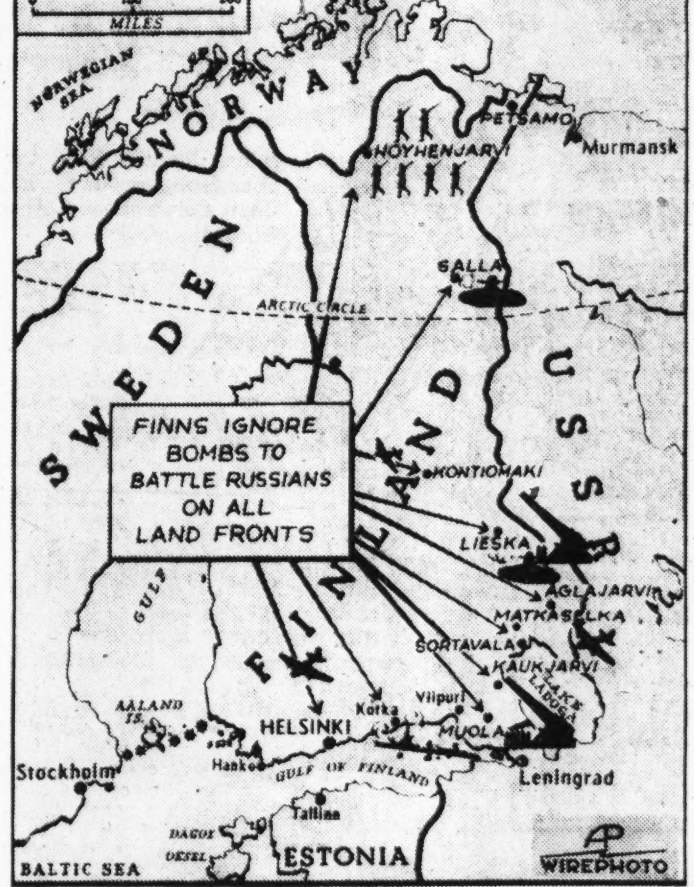

A communiqué said the government had protested to Germany against flights by Nazi planes over Belgian territory.

A number of planes were driven off by Belgian pursuit ships in the provinces of Luxembourg and Liege, the communiqué said, while others were fired upon by Belgian anti-aircraft batteries in the north.

At Bruges, one plane was reported to have been engaged by a Belgian fighter, which pursued it off Belgian territory. The fleeing plane opened fire as it withdrew, but without effect, it was said.

The Netherlands air force drove off foreign planes, presumably of German nationality, in two encounters watched by thousands of residents of the central provinces, but denied there had been a "battle." The government's denial apparently was based on the fact the foreign planes did not return the fire of the Dutch gunners.

One meeting took place over the Soviet fliers bombed the Helsinki hospital zone and several cities yesterday, but while they were doing this, Finnish troops on the ground were hurling the Russians back on several fronts. The map indicates the approximate location of the various types of attack made on Stalin's birthday.

Trawler Raids Anger King

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—British wrath over reports of German action against unarmed fishing vessels in the North Sea was reflected today in an expression of indignation by King George VI while the navy girded itself to cope with the problem.

The king had his say on the matter when Sir John Marsden of the British Trawlers' association, reported alleged gunning of fishing ships by German fliers.

When the king visited the ministry of agriculture and fisheries, Dan Mill, of the fishermen's union, said he "told the king the fishermen are having a helluva time on account of the present tactics of the enemy. I described how one Scottish trawler was attacked with bombs and machine-guns by a German plane. . . . The king said he quite understood."

Swedish Planes Aid Finns, Report

HELSINKI, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)—Thirty-seven Swedish warplanes, including bombers, were reported tonight to have entered service with the Finnish air force, but the report lacked official confirmation. Nearly 10,000 Swedes released from military service in Sweden also were reported to have joined the Finnish fighting forces.

Leaders Wary Of Finnish Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Legislative leaders indicated today that Congress would proceed cautiously, conscious of the international complications involved, if called upon to approve a suggested $50,000,000 loan to Finland for the purpose of war materials.

Finnish representatives were reported to have broached the question of a loan here after they were unsuccessful in obtaining private financing in Wall street. Senator McNary, of Oregon, Republican leader, declared he would support a substantial loan to Finland "for governmental purposes."

"In view of Finland's attitude in keeping her money covenants with this government, I think we could well afford to lend her a substantial sum of money for governmental purposes," McNary said.

Finland was represented, however, as being most anxious to obtain funds for war planes, light field artillery, rifles and small arms.

RAMSPECK GUNS FOR TWO SERVING ON LABOR BOARD

Says Madden and Smith Should Resign or Congress Should Abolish Unit, Name New One.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Representative Ramspeck called Thursday for the resignations of J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith from the National Labor Relations Board, and also proposed two major amendments to the Wagner labor act.

Ramspeck, ranking Democrat on the house labor committee, told reporters that if Madden and Smith did not resign, congress should abolish the present three-man board and create a new one. William M. Leiserson is the third member.

"Madden and Smith—especially Smith—in my opinion have not carried out the will of congress even though they have tried to do an honest job," Ramspeck said. "They seem to have the opinion down at the board that the act was created so they could help unions organize, rather than so that the right of a man to join a union could be legally protected."

He advocated these changes in the Wagner act:

Protection for small unions "which the board has permitted a larger union to take over in some instances."

Formal assurances that employers will have the same right to ask for a collective bargaining election as their workers.

Last summer the board changed its regulations to permit employers to ask for elections, but Ramspeck said that permission should be placed in the law itself "so the board won't be able to change its mind again."

Ramspeck said he hoped that the house labor committee would resume hearings on Wagner act amendments immediately after congress meets January 3 regardless of the investigation of the board by a special committee headed by Representative Smith (Democrat, Virginia).

"I'm afraid that if we waited on the Smith committee to make its recommendations, it might be too late in the session for us to get any amendments at all through congress," Ramspeck said.

REHIRE EMPLOYEE, HUIET IS ADVISED

Advisory Committee Terms Miss Lola Hatfield's Dismissal 'Irregular.'

Dismissal of Miss Lola Hatfield, senior accountant in the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, by State Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Huiet, was "irregular and we recommend that she be reinstated without any loss of time or pay," the personnel advisory committee ruled yesterday.

Miss Hatfield, a member of the Georgia State Employees Local No. 19, was relieved of her official duties December 11 by Commissioner Huiet after the explanation that her position in the bureau had been eliminated during a reorganization of the bureau.

She appealed to the personnel advisory committee, which heard her case Tuesday. Miss Hatfield appeared for herself, while the commissioner was represented by Clifford Walker, principal attorney for the bureau.

The ruling recommending reinstatement of Miss Hatfield was signed by T. Jack Lance, chairman; George L. Googe and Harry E. Nottingham.

domain, they refused to leave the Vatican.

The governor of Vatican City met the royal visitors today at the boundaries of the small papal domain, and read them an official message of welcome. The rulers were accompanied by high government officials in 15 motor cars.

The King and Queen then went to the papal apartments, and there talked with Pope Pius for 40 minutes. After a brief speech in which he praised the Italian government for "permitting Italy in this grave moment of war to remain outside the conflict," the Pope bestowed his blessing upon the royal party. The royal house, the Italian government and all Italy.

U. S. Destroyer Keeps British Out of Florida Waters placed eight men aboard the German freighter under a United States district court order issued when a Texas sugar company sought to collect $38,000 damages from the Arauca's owners, the Hamburg-American line.

The vessel also had been searched by a detachment from the U. S. Navy's destroyer Philip seeking any evidence she may have been engaged in carrying supplies to warships.

The British cruiser Orion continued its watch to prevent escape of the freighter, but stayed just outside territorial waters. Close beside it stayed the navy's destroyer, alert to detect any violation of American neutrality.

Nazi Castaways Detained 'Guests'

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Self-made castaways of the scuttled German liner Columbus found warmth, peace and plenty today in the weathered brick dormitories of Ellis Island, America's historic gateway sanctuary for Europe's troubled wanderers.

More than 300 of the 576 survivors were examined by six immigration inspectors during the day, but District Immigration Director Byron H. Uhl indicated the entire crew, including nine stewardesses and two boys, would be detained as "guests" until after Christmas. All who are found to be bona fide "distressed" seamen are entitled to a 60-day stay in this country.

Captain Given Hero's Funeral

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Seamen of the sunken pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee paid a hero's tribute to Captain Hans Langsdorff today as their dead commander was buried in the German cemetery here with full naval honors.

So great was the crush of a crowd, estimated by officials at 100,000, that burial was delayed for an hour.

Three hundred crewmen from the German vessel formed a guard of honor as the funeral procession left the naval arsenal where Langsdorff ended his life yesterday.

At the cemetery, the sad-faced German sailors stood stiffly at attention as a battalion of Argentine sailors fired a volley over the grave.

Covering the coffin was the German flag which once waved proudly over the Graf Spee, destroyed by her commander last Sunday on Adolf Hitler's orders while British cruisers waited outside Montevideo to re-engage the battle-scarred warship.

Approximately 700 members of the Graf Spee's crew, denied permission by Argentine authorities to visit the cemetery, previously had paid their last respects to their commander in private ceremonies in the arsenal.

The dense crowd so delayed the procession that the funeral sermons of the pastors and eulogies by Ambassador von Thiermann and others had been delivered when six Graf Spee crewmen carrying the dead captain pushed to the grave side.

The secret of Captain Langsdorff's last thoughts before he died by his own hand went to the grave with him. An Argentine naval commission, investigating his death, recommended that the farewell letter he wrote to the German embassy be impounded and kept from the public.

Shrugs at Scuttling

The master of the scuttled Columbus shrugged yesterday in when he discussed the destructive work of his crew.

LANGSDORFF DEATH LAID TO TRADITION

and, as reported, a turret out of action. Captain Langsdorff might pay chivalrous tribute to the masterful British maneuvering and intrepidity. But, when his broadsides could throw four to three in pounds of shells against the three British cruisers in last week's naval battle off Montevideo, and he had 11-inch guns in an armored ship against eight-inch in ships with little armor, this would be no salute to his professional pride.

Should he have gone out to the fight to the death, after he was ordered out of Montevideo, for the honor of the German navy? One naval view is that he should simply have cabled the German admiralty that he was going forth to meet the enemy as soon as he had some repairs made, and, in answer to any contrary instructions from the admiralty, followed Lord Nelson's turning of his blind eye on the flag's signal to withdraw from action. Another view is that he could not refuse to obey the orders of his commander-in-chief.

Scuttled His Ship. In addition to living with the finger of naval tradition pointing at him, he would be known as the naval captain who scuttled his ship. It was too much for a proud, sensitive man. He is reported to have been smiling and amiable as he saw his crew safely off the Graf Spee before she was sunk. Only once was he reported as being irritable, this when he was told of the loss of the Columbus.

"This is not my concern"—from one who had enough to bear.

He said farewell to his officers. But they were not with him as the friends of a Japanese Samurai are when he commits hara-kiri.

The Samurai is supposed to smile, and his triumph is in passing the knife with which he slits his aorta to his second before he expires.

He loved his ship as captains do, and would die with her. We can hardly imagine him saying, before he pulled the trigger: "Fuehrer, I salute you before I die." He did not wait on Hitler's purge or tirade of abuse. More likely, he said: "For the honor of the service."

What Secrets. What secrets did he carry to his grave? Did the Fuehrer not only command him to scuttle his ship, but to run if attacked, lest the British get her? The British would only have scrapped her, and, considering her performance in battle, any secrets of naval construction the scuttling sought to conceal would hardly interest the British navy.

Corporal Adolf Hitler, who never won promotion to be a sergeant, who interferes with his admirals and generals as the great superior naval as well as military tactician, may yet find that the storm troop method of making a navy is not so good as the old established one. Will he be able to follow Captain Langsdorff's example and pull the trigger on himself when the time comes?

SUSPECT ARRESTED AS FAKE FBI AGENT

Correspondence School Man Promised Subscribers Jobs, U. S. Charges.

Burton E. Willey, of Lakeland, Fla., was placed under $800 bond yesterday, pending his return to Virginia to answer charges of impersonating a government officer.

Willey's arrest, announced by Richard G. Danner, special agent in charge of the Atlanta field office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ended a search by government officers that began when a warrant was issued for him last May in Roanoke.

According to information given out by the FBI, Willey, a correspondence course salesman, represented himself as a government officer, and guaranteed government positions to his subscribers.

Danner reported Willey represented a bona fide correspondence school in Baltimore which was as anxious to get in touch with him as the government agents.

Willey, Danner said, operated mostly in rural districts. FBI agents arrested him in a downtown hotel.

Five University Students Make Initial Solo Flights

Harlie Branch, CAA Vice Chairman, and W. M. Robertson, Divisional Inspector, Watch Boys as They Are Put Through Aerial Paces.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Five University of Georgia aviation students engaged in their first solo flights here today with the second highest aeronautics officials in the United States looking on.

Stopping over en route to Atlanta to spend the holidays with his family, Harlie Branch, vice-chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and Divisional Inspector W. M. Robertson saw Alpha Fowler, of Douglasville; Joseph Mayer, of Erie, Pa.; Robert Wyatt, of Atlanta; James Stephenson, of Athens, and Waletre Levie, of Korea, solo.

"They did fine," Branch commented.

The officials were accompanied to the Athens airport by M. N. Tutwiler, Athens banker and a pioneer in aviation development. Branch said the University of Georgia aviation unit was "exceeding expectations," and added that the student program throughout the country is making great progress.

While in the South, Branch will visit Georgia Tech's training unit, and possibly will call on student aviators in Alabama. He inspected Duke and North Carolina units yesterday.

The aeronautics authority is stressing safety in all phases of the aviation development program in the United States, Branch asserted. This includes care in selection of student trainees, instruction in the rudiments of air safety. In the commercial and military branches infinite care is taken in selection of pilots and construction of planes in factories, he said.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 22, 1939.

Opera for Atlanta.

There is nothing that can, more emphatically, demonstrate the recovery of Atlanta from the dark years of depression than the resumption, now announced for next April, of the annual season of Metropolitan grand opera.

The spring season of opera, presented here for almost a score of years by the Metropolitan company, is something peculiarly Atlantan. It brought this city fame not limited, even, to this continent and it acted as a tonic to every local activity, commercial, civic, social.

There has been, for many months, a steady upward movement by practically all indicators of local business conditions. Industrial activity, bank clearings, retail sales and shrinking unemployment all tell the story of a city steadily marching back to that prosperous, progressive condition which, in former years, nourished the far-famed Atlanta spirit.

Visual evidence of the recrudescence of this spirit was emphatically given just a week ago when the city, as a whole, took a planned celebration for the "Gone With the Wind" premiere out of the hands of the professional publicity corps and made it a spontaneous outpouring of civic enthusiasm.

It is now certain that, when the final tabulation is made, the stores of the city will record the heaviest Christmas trade, this year, of any in a decade.

The new season of Metropolitan grand opera, planned for three days next April, should provide the capstone for this reawakening of the progressive spirit of Atlanta. When, once again, the human songbirds come south with the dogwood blossoms and when Atlanta, Georgia and the south throng the auditorium, reveling in the glories of superbly presented opera, then will everyone know, beyond doubt, the city is once again herself, once more the envied synonym of community progress.

Requiescat in Pace

"I should like to be quiet," were among the last words spoken to any newspaperman by Captain Hans Langsdorff, commander of the scuttled German battleship, the Graf Spee, before he ended his own life by firing a bullet through his head.

Today, as the German officer's body lies in state at Buenos Aires, all brave men, of whatever nationality, render to his memory the homage due his courage and voice in varied tongues the hope of all the heroic dead, "Requiescat in Pace."

Mean, indeed, must be that soul, whether friend or foe, which would see in Langsdorff's death anything save the final gesture to tradition of an officer and a gentleman. Especially must the officers of the British and French navies, his immediate foes in life, recognize in his act a fulfillment of that ancient rule of the sea to which they, likewise, adhere. The captain must go down with his ship. Langsdorff did this, despite that he killed himself on land, days after the Graf Spee was destroyed by his hand. He had, before he could die, to fill his final obligation of duty, to see his men safe ashore and to send his final report to his own superior officers in Germany.

His death is not a futile gesture. It is the stuff of which is made the heritage of brave men, all over the world. His memory will serve to inspire many others, in times of peace and times of war, for centuries to come.

From his foes came tribute that Captain Langsdorff, implacable in battle, was considerate and kind when not fighting. There was no loss of life aboard the British merchant vessels he had sunk and he was famous for the good treatment accorded his prisoners of war. The death emphasizes the fine credits of his life and serves as exclamation point to emphasize his firm adherence to the code.

He desired peace. The world today prays he has realized that desire, for all eternity.

The Graf Spee

The Graf Spee incident once again emphasizes the determination of the nations of the western hemisphere to force recognition of the so-called safety zone and their new-found capacity to act together in the common cause. Surprisingly enough, the leaders in this unit have been the nations of South America, now that they have been assured of the support of the United States without the aloofness which hitherto has hampered this country in its relations with the lands to the south.

It has been revealed that the decision to demand the sailing of the Graf Spee had been approved by 11 nations following the action by Uruguay. Adolf Hitler may rant and rave and threaten Uruguay but his actions must be tempered by the knowledge he faces a united front of all the Americas. Every consideration was given the Graf Spee under international law, yet no opportunity was given for the exercise of undue pressure by Germany to influence a further stay of the sailing order.

To recognize the extreme significance of these joint actions, it is well to recall that Uruguay, as well as Argentina, has a large German population and many trade and cultural ties which might easily have swayed the decision. But Uruguay, realizing the terrific import of the incident to all the nations of the hemisphere, immediately called into service all the consultative machinery available and a decision was reached upon which all countries could support their neighbor.

There seems but little question the so-called safety zone was violated by the sea battle. There is little at the moment which can be done except to protest to the powers involved. The Spee was roaming, an armed raider, either within or on the border of the zone. The cruisers of the British South Atlantic squadron were within the zone for the ostensibly legitimate purpose of protecting British and French merchant shipping. When they met there could be no alternative but to fight. This undoubtedly was one of the situations the Pan-American conference foresaw and discounted in advance. It will, however, be protested and it may be expected that the protests will lay the groundwork for still further action to enforce respect of the safety zone. It may be that eventually all merchant shipping of combatant nations will be escorted through the safety zone by warships of the western hemisphere, which would have the effect of limiting belligerent operations within the zone.

The experience has been valuable and the impromptu demonstration of solidarity distinctly heartening.

Medicine Advances

Probably equally as dangerous to human life as streptococcus is the pus-forming staphylococcus germ. It causes boils, gets into heart, lungs, kidneys and joints, often proves fatal. Sulfanilamide, and its offspring, sulfapyridine, have not proved successful in checking it.

A few weeks ago Dr. Grayson Lewis Carroll, of St. Louis University, addressed the Southern Medical Association at Memphis. He told of a new sulfanilamide product: Sulfamethylthiazol. He presented encouraging indications of its effectiveness against staphylococcus.

It had been used successfully on infected mice, said Dr. Carroll, but doctors hesitated trying it on human sufferers except as a last resort.

Eventually a case where the drug could be used presented itself to Dr. Carroll when a friend became hopelessly ill from an infected kidney. All other remedies had failed when the new drug was tried, as a last hope. The patient showed almost immediate signs of improvement and after treatment for 16 days "apparently recovered." Since this first case the drug has been employed successfully four times, once on a baby.

Naturally the doctors, like all scientists, are cautious in claiming the dangerous staphylococcus germ is under control, without further proof. The new drug must be tried on many more patients, successfully, before such a claim could be properly made. But it would seem they are on the right track, as they so often have been in the past, in discovering cures for other fatal diseases.

Editorial of the Day

BLOODTHIRSTY AT HOME

(From The Detroit News)

Long before he wrote "Mutiny on the Bounty," and in fact during the World War, James Norman Hall wrote of a furlough from the British front, where he was serving, that took him by stages back to a remote corner of England. In the line he had found no great ferocity toward the foe, but as he journeyed farther from the lines the hatred of the enemy increased by a mathematical progression, until in a hamlet in Yorkshire he found the ancient around the local pub in a state of bitterness bordering on the psychopathic.

About the same phenomenon is noted at the moment. The Allied war, it is becoming increasingly clear to those who think as well as feel, is one of standing by and forcing the foe to continue a national exertion that is expected to tax his economy to the breaking point. But in England there are voices that sound as if some think they are cheated that the slaughter is put off so long. They have paid their admission and now are whistling for the show to commence. Worse, it is in America, far away and with no part in the struggle, that currency was first given the suspicion that this is a "phony war." Presumably the epic fight for life that Finland is now so gallantly waging has relieved the tedium for those who are swindled unless the day brings some new cataclysm or event that rocks the world.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEW DEAL VS. HOUSE OF MORGAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The little disagreement between the Hatfields and McCoys was no more bitter or long-lasting than the New Deal's feud with J. P. Morgan & Co. In the early years, Morgan's took a part in the business opposition to such New Deal reforms as the securities and exchange acts and the public utilities holding company act. Ever since, the New Deal has done everything in its power to destroy the great banking house's position of pre-eminence in the financial community.

There is something curiously personal in this smoldering conflict between the government of the United States and the country's most celebrated financial institution. The feud is not carried on by the more conservative agencies of the administration, such as the Treasury, whose monetary policy Morgan's defended, alone in Wall Street. The President himself is the chief feudist, and the real fighting is done by the New Deal group, who tend to see Morgan's at work in every attack on their policies.

SAME OLD FACES

The current TNEC hearings must be regarded, therefore, as only one engagement in a continuing war. But, as the TNEC, or monopoly committee, is now going after Morgan, Stanley & Co., the engagement may prove extremely important.

Morgan-Stanley is the underwriting offshoot which the parent house of Morgan was forced to put out when the banking act of 1933 divorced commercial banking and securities selling. It is far more active and, presumably, relatively far more profitable, than the parent house. The vast majority of really gilt-edged securities issues have been Morgan-Stanley issues from the day Morgan-Stanley was founded. H. S. Morgan, the most enterprising of the third Morgan generation, and Harold Stanley, formerly one of Morgan's most brilliant partners, are in charge.

Because of Morgan-Stanley, the banking act has failed to achieve what the New Dealers ardently want, to confine the Morgan influence either to banking or to underwriting. The influence strongly persists in both fields. One real object of the TNEC hearings is to show that the spirit of the banking act has been flouted. SEC Chairman Jerome Frank, Commissioner Leon Henderson, investigator Peter Nehemkis and the other SEC officials who have prepared the TNEC case argue grimly that, although the machinery has changed, the same old system continues to operate.

The TNEC hearings are not exactly stirring. The senators, sitting round their table, look a little sleepy. The investigators ask their questions in an anxious voice. George Whitney, Harold Stanley and the other Morgan and Morgan-Stanley men present are still a protective battalion of experts, but seem less tense than they did in the days of the first great investigations. The testimony itself, concerning the method by which various underwriting firms divide the total business, is technical. But behind this unimpressive scene, which is being so briefly reported to the public, there is the significant reality of the old feud.

AUTOMATIC REFLEXES

The precise relationship between Morgan's and Morgan-Stanley is mysterious, although certain Morgan partners are known to own a minority interest in the non-voting preferred stock in Morgan-Stanley. Both Morgan's and Morgan-Stanley firmly assert that this connection is all there is. The New Dealers are convinced that, practically speaking, Morgan-Stanley acts in concert with the parent house. In any case, the New Dealers have little recourse, since this relationship, if it does exist, is a purely personal one.

That is why the main fire is being concentrated on the division among underwriting firms. Excepting such maverick firms as Dillon, Reed & Co., which has challenged Morgan-Stanley, boasting influence with the administration, the New Dealers think that all the main underwriters are a closed corporation. The bulk of the business goes to Morgan-Stanley, which in turn parcels it out among its friends. Certain types of business are reserved for Kuhn, Loeb, and so on. This, the New Dealers charge, is monopoly.

They have two kinds of substitute in mind. One is competitive bidding for issues, which is so bitterly opposed by the Morgan-Stanley partners that they will shut up shop rather than submit. The other is government-financed underwriting, the scheme of Justice William O. Douglas. Considering the political situation, however, it seems likely that the New Dealers' labors for these two schemes are in the nature of automatic reflexes.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Too Many Distractions.

This, to me, has been a most peculiar Christmas season. Too many things to distract attention. It has seemed more difficult to acquire the full flavor of the Christmas spirit. Despite the presidential moving-up, Thanksgiving day, there seems to have been less time in which to get ready for Santa Claus. Have had to accelerate the rate of enthusiasm growth, this year.

I do hope, incidentally, that it hasn't seemed to others that the time for holiday preparations was short. For gift buying, etc. For, if it has, the stores have probably suffered and I'd hate to think that is true. For it is evident even to a first-grade economist that the more money that goes through the merchants' cash registers, the more is put into circulation and into pay envelopes. The more that gets around, this way, means the better times for you and for me.

Of course, some of the reasons for this seeming dilatoriness of the coming of the spirit of Christmas here, are self-evident. There have been, in Atlanta, too many other events to divert attention. The "Gone With the Wind" premiere festival, for instance. Who could remember Santa Claus and go out buying handkerchiefs for Uncle Will and a scarf for Cousin Abner while Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, et al., were in town?

Then there were the changes in newspaper ownership and printing in Atlanta. The look took much, such as it is, off Christmas for a day or two more, at least.

But Now,

It's Almost Here.

But the old spirit is awakening. There are just a couple more days, then Sunday and then the Christmas tree, the gifts, the turkey and all the trimmings.

For the past week the home conversation has been chiefly whispered consultations, in intrigue. Questions as to whether So-and-So needs a such-and-such, or whether sister is getting that thingummy for mother. Some of them genuine questions from honest seekers after information. Others, said red herrings drawn across trails of suspicion, to mislead the curious as to what Santa Claus has planned.

At this writing, I'm afraid, personally, I've made a financial error.

You see, there was a certain article, for the house, all the family desired. So, frankly and openly, I asked if it would be all right if I secured that article and made it just one big gift to the entire family this Christmas.

Sure. Grand idea, and all that. So I got it. It's already been delivered and everybody knows what dad gave, this year.

But I don't think I can stand it. With a surprise of my own for the Christmas tree, I mean.

Think that, even with the big, inclusive gift, I'll be rushing around, being brutal to salespeople, buying last-minute gifts for them all, at the final moment. Doubt if I can stand off the pressure of personal desire to surprise, after all.

Of course, can't spend much.

But, just some little things—not much—but to be giving something unexpected—you understand—

New Year Thought.

It's early, of course, but David Ungar, the always reliable, has sent out his New Year poem for 1940 and it is so good can't possibly keep it back from you all any longer. Taking his text from Psalms 1:3, "... And He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water..." Ungar writes:

Along the river road beyond the mill,
Early next spring
I must go back and see
If our apple tree is blooming still,
If its calm beauty can bring back to me
Some semblance of the holy, poignant thrill
Of that hushed dawn, the childhood ecstasy
That gazed in wonderment and drank its fill
Of hushed clouds and river's majesty.
Today the world renews with drums of war,
Stride rules the wintry earth, and yet I know
That men must yearn for peace
the wide world o'er,
Though cannons roar above
the blood-stained snow.
The hearts of men cry out:
"Let carnage cease!"
So may the New Year bells ring out for Peace!

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, December 22, 1914:

(Special) Some time tomorrow evening the house will vote on whether or not the states shall have an opportunity to pass upon national prohibition.

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, December 22, 1889:

"Mr. Grady is no better. His condition throughout the day yesterday was anything but favorable, and his family and friends have grown quite solicitous about him."

Decoyed Coyotes.

Stockmen reported a mysterious epidemic rife among coyotes in the isolated Norwood country (Wyoming), for many bodies lay along the highways without a mark on them. But it was just part of the campaign of Fred Marlin, inventor. He designed a new trap that shot a dose of poison into a coyote's mouth when he took hold of the bait. Ninety-two of the predatory animals were killed by Marlin in six weeks.

They Won't Worry.

Come dust, drouth or hail, 3,960 Texas Panhandle dry land farmers are going to collect for 3,660,000 bushels of wheat next fall whether or not they raise it. They have insured their crop against disaster with the Federal Insurance Corporation. The insured production represents about one-eighth of the wheat harvested in the area last season.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

What Is a New York, Dec. 21.—A very interesting but embarrassing question will be dumped in the lap of some unfortunate judge one day soon. Let us take a hypothetical case of a man who has been called a Communist in the print but claims that he is no such thing, and sues for libel.

The first point would seem to be: What is a Communist?

On this issue those who stoutly profess to be Communists have been unable to agree. They are divided into many bitter sects, each claiming that all the others are impostors or heretics. Most of them are comrades together in the past but fell to fighting as Communists will, over questions of doctrine or program, and the old-timers among them have been squealing confidential matter in an effort to discredit one another.

Most of the revelations produced by the Dies Committee consisted of snatches by men who had taken part in various villainies against the United States, but said nothing about these activities at the time, and even now are blowing the whistle only for revenge and not in contrition or for love of the American system of government.

To Weigh But it would be comparatively simple to weigh the claims of these snarling groups and recognize one as the legitimate Communist organization.

It is my understanding that it is no offense to believe in Communism. Therefore, to call a man a Communist by mistake would seem to be merely an error, and a pardonable, even justifiable, error if he had made speeches or followed a course suggesting such a belief. Up to now even membership in the organization which calls itself the Communist party is not illegal. This may be changed if it be shown that the Communist party is an agency of the Soviet government, meddling in the domestic affairs of the United States in violation of the terms on which this government recognized Moscow. If that should come to pass, then membership in that party would be reprehensible, but the question would no longer concern a man's beliefs but rather his adherence to a foreign conspiracy against the United States. It would be a question of conduct, not of belief.

The Communists—to give them all, of course, a name just for convenience, are agreed on one point, and that one a contradiction. They all claim to be the true Communists, but they all agree that to call anyone a Communist, even a real one, constitutes Red-baiting and thus Fascism.

Glib With On their part all of them are glib

Accusation. with accusations of Fascism which they hurl at almost everyone who disagrees with any of them on any point. And not even the actual Fascists of the various strongarm groups which profane the name of Christianity with their evil propaganda, borrowed whole from Hitler, are more cruel or dishonest in their slanders and imputations than these radicals of the left. Their press is as vicious as the Fascist press, and when they deplore the fomentation of hatred by the Fascists they use exactly the same methods themselves.

Not for judicial purposes but for personal vendictive purposes of the individual there is only one workable process. Persons who associate themselves with the hate-groups of the misallied Christian front, even though they do not admit membership, are commonly regarded as Fascists, and nobody more readily condemns them on this circumstantial evidence than the Communists and those with a high degree of tolerance for Communists. By the same process those who persistently associate with Communists will have to put up with a general suspicion that they are Communists themselves. It is not a precise method, but it is the best one that has been worked out to date.

Plot for Story.

A United States army major, attached to the American embassy in Berlin, got into his car and rolled slowly down a blacked-out street for a block. Suddenly he was waved down from the sidewalk. Assuming his car had been recognized by one of the American colonels, he drew over to the curb.

A young man stepped up to the running board, opened the door, popped his girl inside, said "auf wiedersehen" and rushed off. Waving him goodbye, she leaned forward and gave the major her street and house number.

Amazed and wordless, but a gentleman as well as an officer, he shifted gears and took her home.

CLEANLINESS GROWN EASY Taking a bath in America is a pretty dull affair. The public utilities as well as the health departments are all for it, and have combined their resources to make it just another routine gesture. It wasn't always like that. Cleanliness was once a triumphant sort of condition arrived at after much serious thought and some hardship. But cleanliness is now too cheap to be appreciated in the United States of America. Cleanliness, in short, is no longer ranked next to godliness. It's too easily come by.

Godliness, however, is still approached with difficulty south of the Rio Grande. And the difficulty there is one of the several files in the Pan-American ointment.

JOSE CAN'T UNDERSTAND Jose, who makes his living squiring North Americans through Mexico and Central America, will tell you his charges don't mind being cheated, and like being fooled. They will eat fried black beans, fried eggs and fried bananas for a week without kicking too much. And they will gaze complacently on confiscated American properties.

But, and Jose sighs, he will never be able to understand the strange race that lives to the north. It is an unusual American who will join the washwomen on the banks of a muddy tropical river, strip, and join them in their washing. They even demand more than privacy.

There is plumbing of a magnificent order in the Grand Palace hotel in Oaxaca," Jose reminisced. "But this lady from Boston screaming to me that there were chickens tethered in the bathtub. And why not? It is no good keeping them in the patio."

"There was yet another party," Jose continued his mournful recital of Americans abroad. "People of a very high order. We had gone to see the carvings at Mitla. And on our return we passed the night at the most elegant hotel in Puebla. The Empress Carlotta herself had once sojourned there." And Jose was very excited when he told how upon the lady from Chicago became when the waste water from her bath rippled across the floor of her room and disappeared down a drain under her bed.

"The floor was of tile, and there was no damage," he explained. "Some of them laugh," and Jose chuckled himself, "which makes it all the harder for us to understand."

THE WOMAN LAUGHED! There was one woman who laughed so hard the doctor had to be called. Jose saw nothing funny in it.

"It was simply this," and he spread his hands wide in an eloquent gesture.

"The hotel, of course, had baths. And the water did not run across the floor. It ran down a pipe, as I presume it does in America. But through some oversight of the management, the fixtures, beautiful white new fixtures, were not connected to the pipes that brought the water.

"The lady was very tired. And above all she wanted a bath. Of course, when she tried, no water came. She sent for me, and, of course, I reassured her.

"Soon there was water heating on the stove. And a boy to carry it up to her in buckets. It took a long time, of course. There were stairs to climb and much water to heat."

"All was going well. I sat in the patio myself and watched the water being hauled up to her. Fifteen buckets I had counted, when she began to laugh. It was a loud laugh, very frightening.

"And why? The stupid boy had forgotten to plug the drain, and the water naturally ran away.

"I saw nothing to laugh about, but she lay there on her bed laughing and screaming, 'Oh, my beautiful warm bath!' over and over again.

THE ONLY COMPLAINTS "I do not understand, I will never understand, why it is you Americans come here so joyfully and are so glad to leave. Our scenery is of the finest. Our climate the best. Our hospitality is superb."

"The only complaints are of the plumbing. And the men are as bad as the women.

"After all, it is a very minor matter, plumbing. Isn't that true? I'll never understand you gringos."

The Bait Looks So Good That Few Are Smart Enough To See the Trap

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

Borrowing is contrary to nature. The birds and other wild creatures cannot borrow from tomorrow; they must hustle to supply their present needs or go hungry. The farmer cannot borrow next year's harvest; if he has consumed the last, he must do without until another ripens.

The sin of borrowing began when some man learned to produce and hoard a surplus. A second man, being in want, saw and coveted the surplus and said to the hoarder: "Give to me of your abundance and I will repay you." And thus a new curse came into the world.

For one of two things must have happened. Either the lender was defrauded, in which case he hated the borrower, or the borrower repaid the loan by doubling his toil to produce a surplus or by starving himself—in which case he hated the lender.

As civilization developed, the curse was perfected. The borrower was required to hock himself as collateral, and when he could not pay the debt, he became a slave of the lender to work it out.

Some borrowers denied their debt, and thereafter others were required to make their mark on a clay tablet or a bit of papyrus in the presence of witnesses, and the mark was binding under the law. Archaeologists still dig up those old promissory notes where Babylon was.

Not many borrowers had defaulted before the lender said: "Why should I take this risk for nothing?" And the result was usury, which wasn't unlawful interest but merely use or use rental. That perfected the curse.

The borrowers suffered, but they never learned. Getting a month's or year's earnings without toil, merely by making a mark, seemed so easy they could not resist it. It made them feel rich. And because the money came so easily, they spent it carelessly. Easy come, easy go.

'Scarlett' Due for 'Oscar'; Rooney 'Tops' at Box Office

'Andy Hardy' Forces Shirley Temple Out of Theaters' Spotlight.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Mickey Rooney, the bright young man of the Hardy family series and other films, has become the movies' No. 1 box office star.

The results of a questionnaire submitted by the Motion Picture Herald, a trade magazine, to 12,273 exhibitors, steps 18-year-old Mickey up from last year's fourth place. Shirley Temple, in first place four straight years, rates fifth in the 1939 box office standings.

The leaders: 1, Mickey Rooney; 2, Tyrone Power; 3, Spencer Tracy; 4, Clark Gable; 5, Shirley Temple; 6, Bette Davis; 7, Alice Faye; 8, Errol Flynn; 9, James Cagney; 10, Sonja Henie.

POWER LINE BREAK DARKENS DECATUR

4,000-Volt Wire Snaps After Short Circuit.

Most of Decatur wandered around in the dark for more than an hour Wednesday night when a short-circuit snapped a 4,000-volt Georgia Power company line leading to the Decatur substation.

Adjusted after 33 minutes, the break turned out lights, cut off lights, affected heating plants operated by electrically controlled thermostats and darkened most of the streets north of the Georgia railroad.

CHICAGO'S YULE EVE TO BE 'NIGHT OF LIGHT'

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly proclaimed Christmas eve a "night of light" in Chicago.

"I request every citizen to keep every room of every building fully lighted with blinds wide open from dusk to midnight on Christmas eve," said the mayor.

"I believe this symbolic action will dramatically contrast America's freedom to the darkness which enshrouds not only Europe's cities but her democratic institutions."

'Gone With the Wind' Heroine Believed Certain Academy Winner.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—(AP)—They don't need to wait until next year to pass out those gold-plated "oscar" statuettes signifying movie merit.

Hollywood, which annually votes these awards for outstanding work, seems already to have made up its mind that they shall go to Vivien Leigh, who has just made her American debut as Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," and Robert Donat, seen earlier this year in the title role of "Good-bye, Mr. Chips."

However, before the glittering and star-studded announcement dinner of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences on February 29, some vote-swapping may take place. But it'll take a lot of swapping to keep Leigh and Donat from breezing in—says opinion now.

Hollywood collectively hasn't seen Miss Leigh, but enough individuals have been to "sneak" previews and private showings to render an opinion. She'll have a decided advantage over many of her sisters of the cinema because her performance, due to its December 28 showing here, will be fresher in the minds of voters.

The emotional appeal of Donat's excellent performance in the English-made "Chips" got Hollywood and kept it talking about the star and his picture for months. It was a "must" on every list.

Miss Leigh will not be without serious competition. Nominees for the award undoubtedly will include twice-winning Bette Davis, with four performances that attracted attention, and Rosalind Russell, generally conceded to have had the best of it in "The Women." Greer Garson, also in "Chips," and Ginger Rogers, for her comedy performance in "Bachelor Mother," also are said to be certain names on the ballot.

The male nominees will have to include Clark Gable, for Rhett Butler in "Gone," Spencer Tracy for "Stanley and Livingstone," James Stewart for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and probably Will Fyfe for "Ruler of the Seas."

Time: Six Years; Twins: Five Pair; Dad: Quite Calm

LOGAN, W. Va., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The fifth set of twins in six years was born today to 24-year-old Mrs. Bud Chafin and her 41-year-old miner-husband.

"I've gotten so I expected it," said the husband, a mine machineman, upon hearing the news of the arrival of the six-pound boy and girl, Don and Lola Mae.

The Chafins were married when Mrs. Chafin was 16. Altogether, 11 children have been born to the couple. One set of twins died, then one each from two of the other sets died.

The next to last set of twins were born last January 18, and promptly named Franklin D. and Eleanor D. Chafin, in honor of President Roosevelt, whose birthday occurs in January.

The census covering business, manufacturing, mines and quarries, will begin January 2, O. T. Ray, area manager for north Georgia, said yesterday. This phase will require about four or five months. The workers will start gathering information on population, agriculture and housing April 2.

147 Different Schedules. Actually there are 147 different schedules covering business, manufacturing, mines and quarries, in addition to one general form and an administrative office form. Of course, each businessman doesn't have to answer every one of these, but he may be quizzed on more than one.

For example, if you manufacture brick, the census taker will pull the form relating to this type of manufacture from his stack and start firing away. But if you happen to mine the clay used in the manufacture of brick, then you'll have to yield to another form.

Ray took great care to explain that all information gathered in the census will be strictly confidential and that it cannot be used for purposes of taxation, regulation or investigation. Only sworn census employees will see the information.

When the census taker corners absolutely inactive this Christmas, the world would go on proclaiming the Prince of Peace. Every store, every newspaper, every radio station, every train, every greeting card, every lighted tree—all life is vibrant with the message of the Prince of Peace.

I mention every train, and let me take that illustration for a further word. I was in one of the railway stations in Atlanta at a late hour the other night, going down with a group of friends to place the body of a loved one on the train. The mail and baggage cars were loaded to capacity with Christmas gifts and Christmas messages. I had occasion to walk from the baggage section to a sleeper far back on the train, and in every coach and sleeping car

Queries Will Range From Fuel to Fruit Salad Recipes.

By LUKE GREENE.
If you think the neighbor next door is inquisitive, then wait until you encounter the census taker.

This year he isn't going to be satisfied with just counting noses. He's going to want to know everything about your business, from the type of fuel you use in your manufacturing plant to the way you chill your fruit salad in your home.

Even before young 1940 has ceased his lusty yelling, the census workers will be taking to the field armed with a batch of forms and schedules containing questions that would make gossiping old maids look like amateurs.

The census covering business, manufacturing, mines and quarries, will begin January 2, O. T. Ray, area manager for north Georgia, said yesterday. This phase will require about four or five months. The workers will start gathering information on population, agriculture and housing April 2.

147 Different Schedules. Actually there are 147 different schedules covering business, manufacturing, mines and quarries, in addition to one general form and an administrative office form. Of course, each businessman doesn't have to answer every one of these, but he may be quizzed on more than one.

For example, if you manufacture brick, the census taker will pull the form relating to this type of manufacture from his stack and start firing away. But if you happen to mine the clay used in the manufacture of brick, then you'll have to yield to another form.

Ray took great care to explain that all information gathered in the census will be strictly confidential and that it cannot be used for purposes of taxation, regulation or investigation. Only sworn census employees will see the information.

When the census taker corners absolutely inactive this Christmas, the world would go on proclaiming the Prince of Peace. Every store, every newspaper, every radio station, every train, every greeting card, every lighted tree—all life is vibrant with the message of the Prince of Peace.

I mention every train, and let me take that illustration for a further word. I was in one of the railway stations in Atlanta at a late hour the other night, going down with a group of friends to place the body of a loved one on the train. The mail and baggage cars were loaded to capacity with Christmas gifts and Christmas messages. I had occasion to walk from the baggage section to a sleeper far back on the train, and in every coach and sleeping car

NEW QUESTIONS FOR 1940 CENSUS

Scientific progress is responsible for many of the questions to be asked by census takers when they began their work January 2.

For example, there are questions about the ownership of radios, electric refrigerators and other such appliances which would not have figured in the census of a decade or two ago. Other questions seek information about water supply and light equipment, indicating that the government is intensely interested in the standard of living of its population.

formation. Even the President of the United States won't have a look.

But now to manufacturing. The census will cover all manufacturing and printing and publishing establishments where the value of products exceeded $5,000 during 1939. Ray said he is prohibited by law from revealing the specific questions to be asked, but here are some examples of the kind of information you will have to give:

Proprietors and firm members, number of salaried personnel, salaries and wages paid during 1939, cost of materials, cost of fuel and purchased electric energy, value of products, length of time required to manufacture these products, the value added by manufacturing and expenditures made during the year for new plant and equipment.

Business Questionnaire
The business questionnaires will cover retail and wholesale trade, hotels, tourist camps, theaters and other places of amusement, laundries, the construction business, and service businesses, such as barber and beauty shops. Incidentally, information gathered about the latter will give some idea of the amount of money spent for luxuries as compared with the bare necessities.

When the census taker corners absolutely inactive this Christmas, the world would go on proclaiming the Prince of Peace. Every store, every newspaper, every radio station, every train, every greeting card, every lighted tree—all life is vibrant with the message of the Prince of Peace.

a businessman, he will want to know something about the volume of business, the number of employees, the total pay roll, amount of business done on credit with a breakdown to show open account and installment sales separately, stocks on hand at the beginning and end of the year, and the number of unpaid family members who work in the business to show the extent of self-employment.

All of this information will be presented by kinds of business for each state, county and city or town of more than 2,500 population.

Ray said he had not received schedules for population and agriculture, but he did have some information about housing.

There will be a detailed study of each dwelling unit, whether occupied or vacant, rural or urban. There will be a tabulation of the number of rooms, water supply, bath and toilet facilities and light equipment. For each occupied unit or household, information will be gathered on the principal refrigeration used, presence or absence of radio, character of heating equipment and principal heating and cooking fuels used—just to give you a few examples.

Ray emphasized that the Census Bureau was purely a service bureau with no regulatory functions and that no one should have any fear about giving unbiased answers. When the census is completed, the information will be invaluable to businessmen, he said.

Manager Ray announced that he had appointed the following district supervisors: Fonville McWhorter and Byron Pinkston, for Atlanta; Howell C. Brandenburg, for Griffin; Madelon J. Hale, for Dalton; Alex B. Cameron, for Gainesville, and Surgeon A. Bennett, for Augusta.

the message of the Prince of Peace was everywhere evident.

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Prince of Peace, has done more for the business of the world than any man who ever lived. He has sent forth into the world the spirit of giving, which spirit has caused more toys to be made, providing more employment to men and women, than any other man who ever lived. Take that thought and apply it to the wide reach of our common life today, and one is convinced that the Prince of Peace goes on and on and on in His conquest of life everywhere.

He has caused more books to be written, more buildings to be erected, more pictures to be painted, more songs to be composed and sung, than any man who ever

BOLAND ADVISES ON SAFE HOLIDAY

Blazing Yule Log and Christmas Paraphernalia Called Potential Danger.

The blazing yule log and paraphernalia of a typical Christmas are potential sources of serious accidents in the home, Dr. Frank K. Boland, chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross, warned yesterday in a plea for holiday safety.

Careful study of the following suggestions, Dr. Boland pointed out, may mean the difference between a merry Christmas and one marred by serious accident. Guard against falls in the home. Take care that Christmas toys and other holiday paraphernalia are not allowed on floor and stairs. Make certain stairways are properly lighted and free of rugs at top and bottom, that there are no unanchored rugs on polished floors.

Cut the trunk of the Christmas tree at an angle or in a "Y" shape. Then weigh the tree and divide the weight by four. This will give you the weight of the ammonium sulphate needed to fireproof the tree. Dissolve the ammonium sulphate in water, using one and one-half pints of water to the pound. Place the solution in a tin pail, glass jar or earthen crock.

A narrow-mouth container is best, as it lessens evaporation. In a cool place, set the tree in the solution, leaving it there a sufficient length of time for absorption to take place. The danger of combustibility is then at a minimum. Inflammable decorations may be treated with the solution.

In hanging ornaments on the Christmas tree or in decorating, do not stand upon a weak or wobbly chair or any other unstable support.

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

PRINCE OF PEACE.

"Will the Christians dare to mention the Prince of Peace this Christmas when all the world is torn and upset by war?" asks a cynic in a European exchange.

Yes, Christians will sing His praises this Christmas as never before. Christians will pray to Him this Christmas as never before. Christians will give in His name this Christmas as never before. Christians will work to win the world to Him this Christmas as never before.

But if every Christian in the world were to remain silent and

From 32 nations of this jittery world, colorfully-costumed children get together in Washington for a Yuletide assembly, and it's just one big case of Merry Christmas—in 32 tongues, including the Scandinavian. Among bright faces were those of Isabel Recinos (left), Guatemala; Billy Douglas Jr., United States, and Majorie Bertha de Morgenstierne, Norway.

Meet a brand-new princess, folks. Her tiny majesty, Princess Anne, born December 12, makes something of a camera debut in a West Palm Beach hospital, basking in a smile from Mama Princess, spouse of Prince Alexis Obolensky Jr. She's the former Jane Wheeler Irby, of New Orleans.

Make what you will of the expressive young faces that peer over the rail of the German freighter Arauca, now holed up in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., after a fox-and-hound race with a Brit-

PUPILS WRAP UP CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Citizenship League of R. L. Hope School To Send Packages.

The citizenship league of R. L. Hope school, an organization made up of two pupils from each class, yesterday put the finishing touches on nearly a hundred Christmas packages which they had voted to send to children in outlying schools in the county. Busily planning for the project for weeks, the league members decided that the younger children should have charge of the gifts for the children of their ages, while the older pupils made arrangements for the recipients in their age group.

Also included in the league's holiday activities were the Christmas program given on Tuesday and the school Christmas card planned by representatives of every grade at the Piedmont road school.

HOUSING CONTRACT IS RECOMMENDED

Authority Approves Bid of A. Farnell Blair on Egan Homes.

The Atlanta Housing Authority announced yesterday it would recommend the contract for the erection of John J. Egan Homes be awarded A. Farnell Blair, of DeCATUR.

Blair bid $1,474,489 on the 548-family unit, negro rehousing project. Award of the contract is subject to the approval of United States Housing Authority officials in Washington.

John Egan Homes will be located on land bounded by Ashby, Spencer, Chestnut and Carter streets. It is one of the units of the authority's 14-million-dollar slum-clearance program.

Blair was successful bidder on blocks B and C of the authority's John Hope Homes, located near Atlanta University.

ROXY TO PRESENT SINGER JACK HALEY

Theater Will Reopen With 'Star Parade' on Sunday.

Jack Haley, Hollywood's singing comedian, returns to his first love, the stage, when he appears in the "Star Parade" with Mary Carlisle in the opening attraction at the Roxy theater Sunday.

Jack began his career in show business by appearing in vaudeville, the musical comedy, returned to the stage, signed with one of the leading movie companies, and now goes back to the stage.

He has been a tremendous success in every phase of entertainment. On the screen he has played star roles in "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Wake Up and Live," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and "The Wizard of Oz."

When his prest stage tour ends, Jack is said to be in line for a new radio show. He also has been offered several different starring parts in various Broadway productions, one of which he is expected to accept, as well as having received several screen offers.

In addition to these two stars from Hollywood, "The Star Parade" includes several other equally entertaining acts; Howard Nichols, ace of hoops; Roberts and Martin, "king and queen of the shag," and Tiny Ann and Tony Small, harvest moon dances, and others.

On the screen, the Roxy offers "Everybody's Hobby," an amusing film spiced with a bit of melodrama, and featuring the return to the screen of Irene Rich.

TWO SHARP QUAKES NOTED AT FORDHAM

Tremors Believed Somewhere About 2,050 Miles South of New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Two "very severe earthquakes approximately 2,050 miles from New York were reported today by the Rev. Joseph Lynch, Fordham university seismologist.

The seismograph indicated the quakes occurred somewhere in a southerly direction, Father Lynch said, but additional study of the disturbance would be necessary to establish the location.

University instruments recorded two distinct shocks in the first quake, one reported at 3:01 p. m. Atlanta time, followed by the second five minutes later.

The second quake, consisting of one shock, came 13 minutes later. Father Lynch said the recording of the second was "completely wrapped up in records of the first and might be a continuation of the first quake."

'VICTIM' OF KIDNAPING WAS HUNTING SQUEAKS

ABILENE, Texas, Dec. 21.—(AP)—"I just saw a man kidnaped," a woman screamed over the phone to the police desk sergeant.

She said she saw two men put another in the baggage compartment of a coupe.

Captain Harry Hutchison of the highway patrol found the car. He saw two men let a third out of the back.

"I was trying to locate some body squeaks," the "victim," a mechanic, explained.

TINY CAR HITS TRUCK, TRUCK FARES BADLY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The owner of a home-made midge auto was charged with reckless driving today, as the result of a collision between his tiny vehicle and a two and a half ton truck.

The truck was damaged badly. The midge, powered by a motorcycle engine, was constructed by its owners of spare junk-pile parts.

American aeronautic products purchased by the United Kingdom in a recent month were valued at $4,479,222.

Mr. and Mrs. Candler Paraphrase Familiar Poem on Christmas Cards

By Sally Forth.

TO THAT popular couple, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Candler II, goes the palm for originality in Christmas cards. Taking cognizance of the Yuletide season, coming so quickly on the heels of Atlanta's never-to-be-forgotten "Gone With the Wind" festival, they composed the following clever verses, paraphrasing that favorite poem, "The Night Before Christmas," and entitled "Twas the Week Before Christmas":

"Twas the week before Christmas, and all through Atlanta,
Not a creature was still, 'cept maybe Santa,
The people were hung from the windows, we swear,
In hopes that Clark Gable soon would be there.

"The children were neglected all snug in their beds,
While visions of Hollywood danced in their mas' heads,
For mamas, all dolled up, and men in their tails
Had just stepped out on Peachtree trails.

"When all along the streets there arose such a chatter,
Everyone stretched his neck to see what was the matter;
Along the street, windows were packed and jammed,
Into every inch of space people were rammed.

"The Klieg lights on the crest of the streets nice and clean,
Gave luster to Hollywood to objects seen;
When what to our wondering eyes should appear,
But a glamorous Leigh and that Clark Gable dear.

"With such a talented couple, the handsomest yet,
We knew, in a moment, it must be Scarlett and Rhett.
In big limousines the procession came,
The crowd whistled and shouted and called them by name.

"Now Leigh! now Gable! now Selznick and Mitchell!
On, Fleming; on, De Havilland; on, Keves and Munson!
To the door of Loe's Grand, to the front of the stage!
Now, blow away, blow away, blow away all!

"As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the housetop the applause it flew,
With praises of the actors and Margaret Mitchell, too.

"And then all a-tinkle, the stars forsook the city's din,
Board big planes and were gone With the Wind;
As we drew a deep breath and turned around,
Atlanta was really still there, we found.

"It was dressed all in trash from its head to its foot,
And its streets were all littered with paper and soot;
A bundle of mashed fenders in its junk heap,
And all of us ready for sleep and more sleep.

"And now—

"We spring to our feet, to the postman we whistle,
And tell him to bring you this epistle,
To exclaim to our friends far and near,
'Merry Christmas to all, and to all a happy New Year.'"

ANENT Christmas and its attendant festivities, Sally hears that an old-fashioned celebration of the most festive day of the year takes place tomorrow evening at the Peachtree circle residence of Dr. and Mrs. William Kiser Jr. This popular couple will have their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kiser, and other members of the family with them for the singing of Christmas carols, the latter being so much a part of the traditional Yuletide observance.

The children of the household will take a gay part in the tree festivities, the family group to include Marion and Edith Kiser and their children, and Lawson Kiser, who arrives today for the holidays from his recently established home at Valrico, Fla.

Parties Are Planned For Miss Willingham.

Climaxing the series of parties honoring Miss Sara Willingham and her fiancé, Dr. Robert L. Robinson, whose marriage is an interesting event on Wednesday's calendar, was the informal tea given recently by Mesdames W. F. Robinson and D. M. Robinson at their home in Mars Hill, N. C.

Open house is planned for Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Willingham, honoring Dr. Robinson. Fifty guests are invited to meet the groom-elect.

Tuesday evening, following the wedding rehearsal, a buffet supper will be given for members of the bridal party.

The marriage will be solemnized at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, at the Georgia Terrace hotel, home of the bride.

Miss Andrew Weds John Curtis Roy

Miss Sara Alice Andrew, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Andrew, became the bride of John Curtis Roy, of Atlanta and Charleston, W. Va., at a quiet ceremony taking place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the study of the Grace Methodist church. Rev. Henry Jones performed the marriage ceremony before the members of the immediate families.

The bride and groom entered together and were unattended. The bride was gowning in a model of royal blue velvet with a matching velvet hat. Her accessories were black and her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses and valley lilies.

For traveling the bride chose a modish beige wool gown with which she wore brown accessories, topped by a brown lapin jacket. After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. Roy and his bride will reside at 1075 Columbia avenue after January 1.

Kappa Delta Party.

Alpha Tau Chapter of Kappa Delta sorority at Oglethorpe University entertained in the sorority room at Oglethorpe recently with their annual Christmas party. The room was decorated with Christmas colors, a lovely Christmas tree, and many presents. An outdoor skit, a yearly custom, was given by the pledges for the activities.

Debutantes Feted By Mrs. Randall And Miss Randall

Featuring yesterday's social calendar for members of the debutante contingent was the beautifully appointed luncheon at which Mrs. Luther Randall and her daughter, Miss Helen Randall, entertained at the Piedmont Driving Club. Honor guests were Miss Julia Block, debutante daughter of Mrs. Bates Block, and Miss Margaret L'Engle, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L'Engle.

The luncheon table, placed in a private dining room, was appointed entirely in crystal, and featured an effective color motif of red, blue and silver. An oblong crystal container, encrusted with red and blue leaves and filled with red roses, white sweet peas and bouvardia, formed the centerpiece. Silver and crystal candelabra held silver encrusted candles, and the place cards were embossed with the hostesses' initials in red and silver.

Covers were placed for Miss Block, Miss L'Engle, Misses George Dargan, Ann Pappenheimer, Bobo Spalding, Nancy Calhoun, Mary McLaughlin, Elizabeth Groves, Mary Virginia McConnell, Josephine Sanders, Anne Suttles, Rebecca Wight, Selma Wight, Mary Ann Easterlin, of Montezuma; Alice Daugherty, of California; Mrs. Bates Block, Mrs. Philip L'Engle, Mrs. Randall and Miss Randall.

Miss Willie Poage Weds J. W. Cash

The marriage of Miss Willie Poage, of East Point, and J. Wilson Cash, of East Point, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Poage, Rev. W. A. Duncan performed the ceremony and Charles Snow and Billy Grey presented a program of music.

Palms and ferns banked the improvised altar and formed the background for floor baskets filled with white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers completed the decorations.

Miss Lois Arnett lit the candles before the ceremony.

Miss Mabel Poage, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a model of crushed rose wool. Navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses completed her costume.

The bride entered with her father, W. M. Poage, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Roy L. Cash, who was best man. She was becomingly gowning in a costume suit of Heaven-blue wool trimmed in milk, with which she wore a blouse of ice blue satin. Brown accessories and a shoulder spray of orchids completed her costume.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Poage entertained at a reception for the wedding party and friends of the couple.

Miss Agnes Clinkscales kept the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Cash left for a short wedding trip and upon their return they will reside at 314 Bryan avenue in East Point.

Open House Sunday.

Mrs. Donald Long and Miss Martha Frost will hold open house on Sunday for Misses Carvel Grant Long, Josephine Sanders and Mrs. James Campbell Jr. Mrs. Campbell is the former Miss Cornelia Whitner.

A group of friends has been invited to call from 4 to 6 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Long on West Pace's Ferry road, to meet the attractive honor guests.

Miss Virginia McBride, of Newnan, Becomes Bride of J. H. Neville, Jr.

MRS. JOSEPH HUGH NEVILLE JR.

NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 21.—Enlisting the interest of friends throughout the south is the marriage of Miss Virginia McBride, daughter of W. C. McBride and the late Mrs. McBride, of this city, to Joseph Hugh Neville Jr., also of Newnan. The ceremony took place this afternoon at the Central Baptist parsonage here, with Dr. Ronald C. S. Young, officiating before members of the immediate families.

The attractive bride chose a costume suit of cornflower blue wool, with which she wore a small hat of the same color trimmed with Persian lamb and a cluster of orchids.

Mrs. Neville, who is a popular member of Newnan's social set, received her education in the Newnan schools, at Converse College, and was graduated from Shorter College. She comes from a distinguished line of ancestors, her mother having been before her marriage Miss Jennie Hardaway, daughter of Robert Henry Hardaway and Isora Burch, pioneer settlers and developers of social and civic life of Newnan. Her father is the son of the late William Cardwell McBride, of Armagh, Ireland, and Mary Jane Magee, of Tully House, County Cavan, Ireland. The bride's sisters are Mrs. James Goodrum, of Honolulu, and Mrs. Haskell DuBose, of Hollywood, Cal. Her brothers are W. C. McBride Jr., of Petersburg, Va., and Henry McBride, of Newnan.

Mr. Neville is the son of Joseph H. Neville, of Portsmouth, Va., and Mrs. Virginia Jones Neville, of Lakeland, Fla. He is the nephew of the late Garland Jones and Mrs. Jones, of Newnan, with whom he made his home in recent years. He has one brother, Richard Neville, of Lakeland, Fla.

The groom attended the Lakeland schools and Virginia Military Institute and was graduated from the University of Florida. He is a member of the A. T. O. fraternity. Of celebrated Virginia lineage, the groom's ancestors were the late Richard Watson and Bettie Spratley Jones, of Greenville county, and George L. and Sarah Newnan Neville, of Portsmouth, Va.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Neville will make their home in Newnan, where the groom is associated in business with Manget Bros., cotton merchants.

Trio of Debutantes Honored at Tea

Misses Constance Knowles, Selma and Rebecca Wight, popular members of the 1939-40 debutante club, were complimented yesterday at the elaborate tea at which Mrs. Joseph L. Hodgson and Miss Mary Logan Hodgson entertained at their home on Parkside drive.

The honor guests and their hostesses received their guests standing before the fireplace in the living room, which was flanked on either side by Christmas trees trimmed with vari-colored lights. Lighted candles and smilax decorated the windows. Bowls containing holly, red and white poinsettias, and Christmas greens flanked by silver candelabra holding burning red tapers completed the decorations.

Pouring tea in the dining room were Mesdames James L. Hogan, J. T. Moody and Joseph S. Stewart Sr., the grandmothers of the honor guests and the hostess, Miss Mary Hodgson. Centering the tea table was a silver basket containing an artistic arrangement of red carnations, narcissi, and ferns flanked on either side by silver candelabra containing red tapers. Centering the coffee table placed in the library was a silver bowl containing red poinsettias and greens flanked by silver candelabra holding gleaming red tapers.

Assisting in entertaining were: Mesdames John M. Slaton, Ward Wight, Clarence Knowles, Edward S. Lewis, Joseph Winship, Ott Alston, Nelson Spratt, Marion Bleakley, Winter Alfriend, Misses Mary Goodrum, of Newnan; Sara Lewis, Margaret Winship, Frances Alston, Gertrude Spratt and Dorothy Petet.

Poise Is One of the Most Important Essentials in Any Career

Correct Posture Improves Any Figure

By Ida Jean Kain.

"Don't try to pose—have poise!" And that advice must be worth taking, for it comes from none other than John Powers, whose lovely models smile at you from all the magazine advertisements. And no wonder they smile, the rate they're being paid!

What it takes to be a successful model would make any girl a success. . . . Listen to this: "The beautiful but dumb girls don't register. To be a topnotch model, a girl must have an intelligent face, which presupposes she has intelligence. Then, she must not only have a lovely figure but she must know how to carry it."

It is Mr. Powers' firm belief that poise is the most essential quality in any career, and that older women are more likely to have it than the youngsters.

In one week, three sets of mothers and daughters came in to see about modeling. The mothers, he found, had more assurance and poise than their daughters, and seemed to present themselves to the world with more dash. In fact, in one trio, the daughter was 16, the mother fortyish, and the grandmother sixtyish—and grandma was the best of all because she was so naturally charming and enthusiastic about the whole thing. Grandma had yumped!

Young girls, Mr. Powers thinks, are apt to be posy and stiff because they are self-conscious. None of that makes for beauty or charm. And very few of them know how to walk. . . . most of them look charming until they walk, he says, but they don't know how to put their best foot forward and glide along beautifully.

Just how should a girl walk? Well, she should "pull her head up out of her shoulders, her shoulders out of her waist, and her waist out of her hips." That's supposed to keep her liquid and flexible. Anyway, the advertisers are paying money for it! They seem to agree that that kind of pull can do a girl a world of good!

And how tall does a model have to be? From a minimum of five feet four, with shoes, to five feet 10-12 with shoes. And what about the little girls of say, around five feet one, can they be models? Yes, they can. . . . but few of them stand out. They seem to feel their lack of height 'so much to have poise!"

As for ideal measurements, those depend on the girl. But her measurements must be perfect for the particular bones. According to the model measurements I glimpsed, that means a waistline of nine to 10 inches less than the bust, and hips no more than one or two inches larger than the bust. Model measurements are fairly rare!

All the most popular models get their full share of exercise. They couldn't last in the business if they didn't! But, along with that, they carry themselves so beautifully that they make the best of their figures.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How many milk teeth are there?

A. Twenty: ten in the upper jaw and ten in the lower. By the time the baby is one year old he may have six teeth; at one and a half years, twelve; at two years, sixteen. At the age of two and one-half years the entire set of twenty should be in. There is considerable variation both as to the order and time in which the teeth appear; and a mother need not be alarmed if her baby does not follow the average stated here; but if a baby has no teeth at the end of the first year he can hardly be developing properly, and a physician should be consulted.

In early days in Australia, missionaries agreed on standard spelling of native names, and accepted a single way of pronouncing vowels.

Classic Lines Minimize Your Size

By Barbara Bell.

You'll thoroughly enjoy this comfortable, slenderizing house dress (1824-B). It's so good-looking, for one thing, with simple, classic lines that minimize size, and a dipped, square neckline becoming to full faces. Then, too, it has every detail that makes for working comfort.

The short sleeves are slashed, so that they are as unhampering as no sleeves at all. The darted waistline is easy and unrestricting and there's plenty of width at the skirt hem. Two big patch pockets are convenient as well as decorative. Best of all, this is a diagram design, consisting of just five pieces, sleeves and all, so that you can cut it out and run it up in no time! Three or four dresses made like this won't be a bit too many. Calico, gingham, seersucker and percale are practical materials for this design.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1824-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 36 requires 4-5-8 yards of 35-inch material.

It's smart to sew your own! It's easy to do! Send for our fascinating Pattern Book. Choose from more than 100 new designs for all occasions and all sizes. Make your own becoming clothes, with these simple patterns. Step-by-step sew chart with each one.

Look Your Best, Have a Hobby, Be Pleasant

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: At the age of sixteen I am troubled with self-consciousness. If I go up town I choose all the by-ways to avoid meeting the people I know. I am ill at ease in a crowd, especially if there are girls present. I haven't a single grudge against anyone and everybody seems to like me but I can't overcome the scared feeling. Have you any suggestions? H. H.

ANSWER: Son, you are suffering from adolescent anguish, part and parcel of youth. Unfortunately there are many grown ups who have never succeeded in outgrowing these anguishes but you will because you have already discovered that they are inconvenient and annoying.

Three suggestions may help you:

First, instead of giving your face, teeth and hair a lick and a promise night or morning, give them a good scrubbing and brushing night and morning; shine your shoes, press your trousers to razor edge, match up your shirt, tie and socks with your suits, put a gay handkerchief in your pocket and strut down the street, peeping in every plate glass window you pass—just to see that you look your best.

Second: Instead of thinking how many of your acquaintances like you, begin to count those you like and slip it to them at every opportunity. Tell that girl you meet what pretty hair she has. Tell the boy at school what a pippin of an athlete he is. Pass a pleasant time of day with the teacher going in or out of class.

Third: Get yourself a hobby and stick to it. Spare time. Saturate yourself with information on the subject and you'll find that you can't keep from making conversation. If it happens to be a manual hobby practice until you are expert and compare notes with other boys who have the same one. Or if it happens to be a collecting hobby, find a buddy to join you in your hunts.

We human beings are pitiable, aren't we? Not a one of us but wants to get along pleasantly with people. Not a one of us but wants to be sociable. Yet half the time we are so scared of ourselves that we end by running away from the very thing we want most of all. And nobody ever chases us.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

G.W.T.W. Opens Southern Picture Series

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—Cecil B. De Mille says he knows nothing about the rumored plan for Simone Simon to play "Lovely Savage" Loupette in his "Northwest Mounted Police." As I understand it, De Mille is searching for—to use his own words—"a girl who can act, who is not yet typed, or shopworn. Someone who has a natural fire." I don't think Simone can act, she has been typed, but I think she has a "natural fire"—when she lets herself go—which is often—in real life. Marlene Dietrich has also been mentioned for the role, but she doesn't seem to fit the description, either. Definitely cast in the other leading roles are Madeleine Carroll, Joel McCrea and Robert Preston. Barbara Stanwyck was to have played the Carroll role, which would have given the same line-up as "Union Pacific." Barbara withdrew after De Mille explained that he wants a blond, quiet type, as contrast for Loupette.

While on the subject of Miss Stanwyck, the top spot she was to have played in "Three Cheers for the Coast Guard" is now being offered to Irene Dunne. Is anything wrong, Barbara? "Heart of Darkness," starring Orson Welles as director, actor, producer and writer, is taking so long to prepare for the camera that, in order to keep the members of the cast in Hollywood, Mr. Welles will precede the Conrad epic with "The Smiler With the Knife," which goes into production in January, to be followed in March by "Heart of Darkness."

The Dorothy Parker-Alan Campbell play, "The Happiest Man," lands on Broadway early in the new year. The couple are currently in Hollywood creating a movie for Cary Grant and Irene Dunne. . . . Jimmy Stewart is wanted for the Edward Small production, "Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Jimmy is now being offered a full-fledged producer and will release his pictures via the studio of his former boss, Sam Goldwyn. . . . "Smilin' Through" is first on Jeanette MacDonald's schedule after her concert tour.

Prepare for an avalanche of southern pictures now that "Gone With the Wind" has been released. Metro is leading the way with a short, "The Old South," which tells the history of cotton in this country. . . . Basil Rathbone's first starring picture at Paramount "Destiny." . . . Yet another replacement for "Married, Pretty and Poor." Jane Bryan is out, and Olivia De Havilland in, and the latter will be something new in screen loves for John Garfield.

Mary Martin joins the Jack Benny-Fred Allen picture, described by Paramount as "A Gay Musical." Loretta Young gets the lead in Tay Garnett's "World Cruise." The story revolves about a round-the-world cruise on a luxury liner.

Virginia Vale, who came to Hollywood via a Gateway to Hollywood radio broadcast, is sticking for another year. She has been re-opted by RKO (most of them are dropped after the first picture). . . . Charles Laughton (whose "Hunchback of Notre Dame" picture is the most sadistic and frightening I have seen for quite a while) is wanted by Goldwyn to appear in "Tahiti," with Jon Hall. The story, originally titled "MacIntosh," is authored by Somerset Maugham. . . . "Out of Gas" is the title for a new Errol Flynn Starrer, to follow "The Sea Hawk."

Mickey Rooney will be teamed with Ann Southern in a near-future Metro picture. Sounds promising. That reminds me—Paul Whiteman and his band have been paged for the next Rooney-Judy Garland musical. That sounds promising, too. . . . Elsa Maxwell is now parked in the Warner Brothers' studio, where she is making a series of shorts, starting off with "How To Get Fun Out of Life," and including "Fun at Your Own Party." It all sounds pretty good to me. . . . They are building a special-size bungalow for Mae West at Universal, which sounds like permanence for Mae at this studio. We shall know more on this subject after seeing her opus.

New Suit Taken At Two-Level Is Complicated

By Harold Sharpsteen.

("Teen-Age Lesson No. 11")

Requirements for one-over-one simple suit takeouts are not so exacting as two-over-one simple responses, chiefly because responder is naming a higher-ranking suit without increasing the bidding level.

When second hand passes, partner of the opening bidder may name a higher-ranking suit, holding one honor-trick medium. If second hand overcalls, third hand's one-over-one response usually guarantees 1½ honor-tricks.

MORE STRENGTH

When partner's takeout must be made at the level of two, however, the standard requirements are two honor-tricks minimum, a biddable five-card suit, regardless of whether second hand passes or bids.

To avoid embarrassing rebids, two-over-one takeouts should be used cautiously, for as in the case of the one-over-one simple suit takeout, opening bidder will be required to bid once more when responder takes out a new suit.

SAFETY RULE

It is unwise to take out in a new suit at the two-level without knowing in advance what your next rebid will be.

Prefer a one notrump takeout over a two-level takeout, unless:

1. Suit can be rebid to the three level if necessary, or
2. Holding, in addition to the biddable suit, normal trump support for partner's bid suit, or
3. When partner's possible two no-trump rebid is acceptable.

In other words, be prepared for your next-round bid, before naming a suit at the two-level:

TWO-LEVEL RESPONSES

Partner opens the bidding with one heart, you respond two clubs, holding:

- (1) S-K 4 D-5 3 H-6 3 2 C-A Q J 9 6 2 Good rebiddable club suit.
- (2) S-J 4 3 D-5 3 H-K J 7 C-A J 9 6 5 Support for hearts.
- (3) S-Q 10 9 D-K 9 H-8 7 5 C-A J 9 7 6 Suitable for notrump.
- (4) S-A 8 5 4 D-3 2 H-5 3 C-A 7 5 4 3 Bid one notrump if second hand passes, in spite of 2 H. T. and a biddable five-card suit, or holding 2 H. T. a weak four-card biddable minor suit.

Til tomorrow . . . Mail your bridge problems to Harold Sharpsteen, care The Atlanta Constitution, enclosing a self-addressed stamped (3-cent) envelope.

Create Holiday Scene of Gayety And Festivity

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

As fragrant festive a Christmas decoration as we know about is one which would make most home-making hearts shudder with alarm. It's the old Swedish habit of scattering pine and juniper needles thickly over the freshly scrubbed white board floor. In the olden days, such a floor was lovely white board floors to scrub; in the second place evergreen needles would be pretty hard on the parlor rugs we do have. If there's a basement or attic game room to have the tree in, with some smooth floor, can "take it," then a spongy fragrant mat of evergreen needles underfoot would add gay Christmas cheer to the holiday scene.

As for the tree itself, much more can be made of it if it is possible to give it a room of its own. Then you might do any one of a number of things, such as: cover the walls and ceilings with garlands, tinsel and tacks or pin to it big silver and gold paper stars and white snowflakes (the tinsel would seem expensive the first year, but you can use over every other Christmas for years). In a setting like this, the tree would be mystically beautiful if trimmed entirely in silver rain with blue lights and blue glass balls.

LIKE A WINTRY WOODS. Another suggestion for a Christmas room would be to stretch white tulle over the walls, then fasten to it big cut-out silhouettes of pine and spruce trees cut out of dark green paper, creating the effect of a forest. Then have an old-fashioned Christmas tree laden with myriads of fanciful ornaments in every color, and lighted like fairyland.

Canvas stretched over the floor and real boughs of evergreens drooping over the windows and from the chandeliers would add to the illusion of a wintry woods. Or deep green tulle draped with big snowflakes cut from white paper would create an alluring Christmas scene.

A tenderly reverent Christmas room might be made with fresh straw on the floor and a little manger scene at one end. Then all around the room blue tulle, spattered with Christmas stars, and perhaps at the other end of the room the big family tree.

PLAY CENTER.

Alabama's capital city, Montgomery, soon will have a fine recreation center. Work will start in January on a $200,000 federal-state-city project at Lagoon Park to include a boating lagoon, open-air amphitheater, thousands of new trees and shrubs, new roads, bridge paths and picnic grounds.

MY DAY: Cakes at Christmas Are Welcome Gifts

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK—I traveled around yesterday from house to house, leaving my Christmas packages for my neighbors at Hyde Park, and I was struck by the number of new small houses which have sprung up around us. Before we know it, this is going to be a real suburban development.

Two of our neighbors brought us a most marvelous fruit cake, which my husband and I enjoyed greatly. These friends make these cakes every year, and I should think their friends would be most grateful for this welcome addition to the Christmas table. It came on a red plate with a red ribbon and decorated with holly and red ribbon. It was such a pretty package, I almost hated to open it. Once opened, however, everyone enjoyed it.

Our second gift was a cake also and it was made by my daughter's cook, Katie. She has been a member of our family for so long that we look forward from year to year to her Christmas cakes and chocolate fudge, which she makes for us as a special mark of favor. So our Christmas has begun early and we are adding pounds.

The only person not allowed to eat all these goodies is the youngest member of the family, Baby Johnny, who came with the rest of his family to visit me at my cottage yesterday afternoon. He was put down on the floor on a white bear rug and immediately seized upon a magazine and, before we knew it, he had evidently bitten off a corner of the page. He chewed it contentedly and we thought he was still munching on a piece of zwieback. Finally, we discovered our mistake, but, of course, printer's ink must appeal to him. Being a newspaperman's son, he must develop these tastes early!

Sis and Buz and all the family had rides yesterday. The children rode old "Brownie," whom a friend of ours lets us use for their good night, quiet horses.

I forgot to tell you that on Monday night I attended the tenth anniversary party of the Roosevelt Home Club in Hyde Park, where the former presidents of the club, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Moses Smith, and Mr. Erden Ackert, each said a few words. The main speech was made by Mr. Hardy Steinhilber, and after we left, the active entertainment of the evening began when the chairs were cleared away and everybody took to dancing.

It was the President could have been present to receive in person the framed painting of a ship in full sail, which was given to him for the new library. I took it home to him before he left to take a late train back to Washington and he was much pleased. Then we drove to Highlands and saw him off and I am afraid Miss Thompson and I gloated a bit on our way home, because we were going back to enjoy our own beds instead of returning to Washington by train.

The young lady in the picture is refreshing herself after a tennis match, with a spicy outdoor perfume which will put her in a gay, carefree spirit. At the right, above, is the miniature modernistic tree with its torch or curly plumes. Below is the trinket box fashioned after the old-fashioned Christmas log.

Dainty Fragrances for Her Are Moderately Priced

By Lillian Mae.

1. Like a miniature modernistic tree covered with gold foil, spangled with a red star and crested with a torch of curly plumes, this package treasures within a little flacon your choice of any one of four scents made by a well-known Parisian perfumer. The price is $3.95.

2. A larger edition of the tote basket which I called to your attention yesterday. Made of the same sturdy ash, with the same double handles which conventionally fold down, it carries a perfect assortment of toiletries for the bathroom; a round box of bath powder, two cakes of toilet soap, one tube of bath salts, one guest size talcum powder, one 4-ounce bottle of toilet water with atomizer. The basket itself is lovely for many uses. May be purchased for $5.

3. A triple vanity in chrome and blue enamel—flat, rectangular—contains rouge, loose powder well, and a lipstick. This is a dandy compact, practical and yet very attractive. The price is $5. It may be had also in simulated gold finish.

4. A smaller edition of one of the most popular French perfumes on the market. Its admirers have been won by its refreshing spiciness which seems to keep spring continually in the air. Wearing it, one cannot but assume a carefree, gay outdoor spirit. The new bottle is priced at $5.

5. A unique night fragrance to spray on nightgowns, negligees, sheets and pillow cases to lull one to sleep. It's such a "different" present, in its adorable wreath-crowned Christmas angel bottle and the silver box shaped like a cathedral window. It will have a place on "her" night table all year long—$5.

6. A compact containing not only rouge, powder and lipstick, but a well of quick-cleansing pads as well, for use anywhere, anytime, to cleanse and also leave a base for the fresh make-up. Packaged with a jar of extra cleansing pads at $5.50.

7. An old-fashioned Christmas log, even to grain, size and detail of coloring, comes filled to the brim with modern, sophisticated gifts: a deodorant, dusting powder in shaker box, rouge, lipstick and soap, all bearing a name that stands for the very best in cosmetics. The log makes an ideal

Keep on Hand A Few Pounds Of Plain Wheat

By Dr. William Brady.

Trying to tell how the human machinery works in the rigidly limited space available here daily is like explaining to your second wife via long distance why you will be several days late in returning home.

Due to modern refinements our national diet, according to good nutrition authorities, commonly provides insufficient calcium and vitamin D, insufficient vitamin B-complex and iron, and perhaps in many instances there are shortages of other mineral elements and of other essential vitamins—but those mentioned are the important ones.

The vitamins are functionally related with the hormones or internal secretions in the body—such as thyroid, adrenin, estrogen, and testosterone. Constant moderate deficiencies in intake of the essential vitamins probably (this is merely the notion of Ol' Doc Brady, remember!) account for functional weakness or irregularity of the ductless glands in many cases.

At first thought it may seem a far cry from white bread and "purified" or partly digested cereal pap to infantile anorexia, nervousness, intestinal indigestion, celiac disease, malnutrition, or juvenile anemia or hypochromic anemia in adults, chronic fatigue and spinal curvature—it may seem so to you. It doesn't seem so to me. But then, I am a little worried about vitamins, am I not?

It seems futile to talk about restoration of life to ghost, whether by requiring the use of a reasonable proportion of entire wheat for the making of bread or by requiring the addition of a reasonable part of the vitamin B-complex which has been removed in the refining of flour, also nutrition authorities are considering both of these prophylactic measures.

It is not unreasonable and not impracticable to procure and keep on hand a supply of plain wheat and use it in the daily dietary, if you control the food supply in your own home. I have a monograph "Wheat to Eat" which gives instructions for the use of wheat—send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for it.

If you cannot control the food supply or preparation of food, then you can at any rate keep on hand a few pounds of wheat germ, and eat several tablespoonfuls of it daily to increase your intake of vitamin B-complex which is sadly deficient in the usual namby-pamby diet.

If you will not or cannot effect either of the adjustments mentioned, then at least you can lay in a supply of vitamin B-complex tablets and furtively chew or swallow three to six of them every day—each tablet contains 150 international units of B1 (thiamin) so three to six probably give enough B1 to keep a normal person in fair functional shape. One who gets enough vitamin B-complex daily will rarely have a any iron shortage, for B-complex controls the assimilation of iron.

The other important deficiency of our namby-pamby diet is calcium and phosphorus. The assimilation, utilization and retention of which is controlled by vitamin D. Egg yolk, milk, cream, butter, oysters, fresh or canned salmon, sardines are virtually the only foods containing significant amounts of vitamin D. Milk, cheese, greens, peas, beans, etc. are the best food sources of calcium.

Various meats and fish are good food sources of phosphorus. Wheat is a good source of phosphorus, but most of the phosphorus is removed in refining wheat into white flour.

In infants, children and youths ten to eighteen years of age, it is generally advisable to supplement the everyday diet with additional vitamin D in one form or another, and in some cases the child or youth should also receive calcium and phosphorus along with the daily ration of vitamin D.

To Our Thousands Of New Readers

We Appreciate Our Privilege And Assume Our Obligation

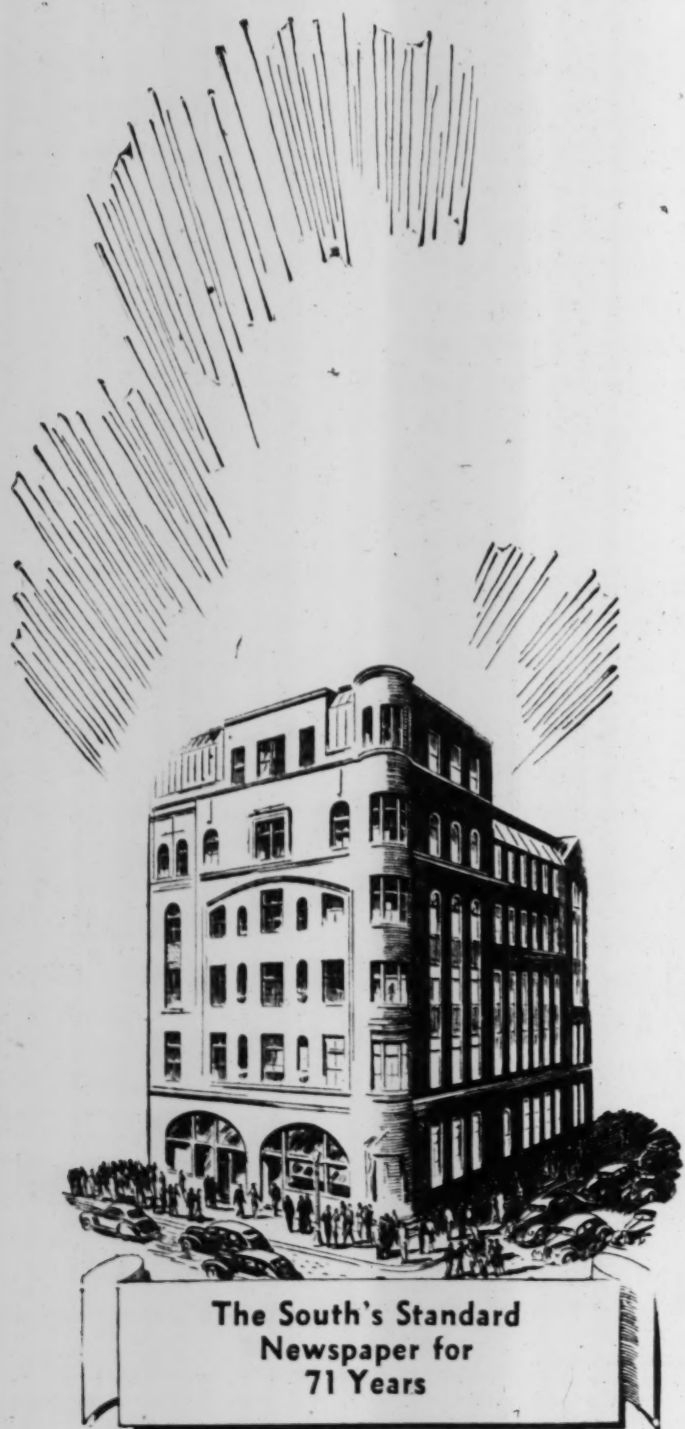

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, in the past few days, has begun to make a regular daily appearance in thousands of Georgia homes where formerly it had been only a familiar visitor from time to time. The Constitution has become a member of the family instead of a welcome guest.

We appreciate the significance of this new relationship. We cherish its privileges . . . and accept its obligations. We regret, for example, that printing thousands of additional papers and routing them to new homes has caused some little delay in deliveries.

We are correcting that situation as rapidly as effort and ingenuity can contrive. You will quickly discover that prompt delivery is one of our pet prides.

We sincerely believe that a brief day-to-day acquaintance with this newspaper will clearly show you why The Constitution has been the South's Standard Newspaper for 71 years. With its feet planted so firmly in Georgia soil, The Constitution is naturally clothed in the best traditions of the South and has a human heart and conscience. These qualities find expression in a journalistic ideal that refuses to be satisfied unless it is improving itself in service to its friends and neighbors every day that passes.

Every time our presses turn, our pledge to perpetuate that purpose is repeated, to our old subscribers as well as the new.

ATLANTA IS LIKELY TO HEAR TOP STARS OF METROPOLITAN

Company Will Come Here April 22-24 If Municipal Auditorium Is Made Available at That Time.

Metropolitan Grand Opera will visit Atlanta for a three-day presentation April 22-24 under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Club, headed by Mrs. Harold Coolidge, if the municipal auditorium is made available, it was announced yesterday.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the public buildings committee of council, asserted he will await the return today from New York of Marvin McDonald, manager of the music club's offerings, before calling a conference with various organizations which have the auditorium booked for those days, adding "I expect and know we will get the enthusiastic co-operation of every one of them."

Metropolitan opera was offered here last in 1929, and there have been several futile attempts to revive the annual visits since.

Offer Is Hailed
Mrs. Coolidge and White hailed the offer of the company to come to Atlanta with its biggest stars as one of the finest things which has happened in many months.

Rearrangement of auditorium schedules yesterday appeared to present no insurmountable obstacle as only two organizations are definitely affected.

"We are so happy that we can offer Metropolitan opera again in Atlanta after an 11-year lapse in its annual pilgrimages," Mrs. Coolidge said. Mr. McDonald was in New York arranging some other schedules when he was informed that the company would "like to come to Atlanta on route from its trip from New Orleans to New York."

"I believe it would be a splendid thing for the city, and would even stimulate business. Music lovers will be pleased to know that the Atlanta Music Club is in a position to present again in Atlanta the greatest galaxy of musical stars in the world."

McDonald Back Today
"Mr. McDonald will be back in Atlanta Friday morning, and as soon as he arrives with all the details, we will know just what is expected of us. We know every co-operation will be given our efforts."

White said he will seek a conference with "all interested parties just as soon as Mr. McDonald gets in town."

"This is one of the biggest things which has happened recently in Atlanta," White asserted. "I will not wait for the Atlanta music club to come to us, but will pitch in and help in any way we can. I am confident that those who have bookings at the auditorium will co-operate with us in rearranging schedules so that we can complete arrangements with the company."

Advices in Atlanta were that McDonald has held a series of conferences with Edward Johnson, Metropolitan manager, and that the company is anxious to resume its visits to Atlanta.

Harmonizing Officials Give Vocal Cords a Workout

Harmony, spiked with co-operation, was the theme last night of a dinner given city and county leaders by Judge Robert Carpenter, of the civil court of Fulton county. Striking a tune while Mrs. Mabel Abbott MacNeill, county treasurer, plays, are (left to right) County Commissioner J. A. Raggsdale, Mayor Hartsfield, Judge Carpenter, Judge Virlyn B. SIX TAX CASES HEAD HIGH COURT DOCKET

First Scheduled for Call Is Appeal by Fulton County Assessors.

Six Fulton county tax cases head the calendar for the January term of the state supreme court when it opens January 2 to hear arguments.

First case scheduled for call is the Fulton county tax assessors' appeal to a court decision holding they could not collect intangible taxes from the Lindsay Hopkins estate.

Two cases are appeals by insurance companies—Columbus Mutual Life and Guardian Life—which contend they should not have to pay intangible taxes on mortgages held in the state by the company when they do not sell insurance in Georgia.

Three other cases involve the question of whether appeals to decisions of the tax assessors may be carried to the superior court. These cases have been certified from the court of appeals to the supreme court. They are Allied Mortgage Companies, Inc. vs. Gilbert et al., tax assessors; Gilbert et al. vs. Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., and Gilbert vs. Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Thirty-five cases are on the schedule for argument January 2 and 4.

Both the court of appeals and supreme court have adjourned until January 1.

Members of Seven Clubs Welcome Head.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 21.—(P)—Rotarians from Macon and eight other clubs in the district honored their international president, Walter D. Head, of Montclair, N. J., at a dinner here today.

Mr. Head addressed the Rotarians, their wives and guests, after special tribute had been paid to Mrs. Head as she was introduced to the gathering of 200 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Head stopped in Georgia on a trip to Florida, and were to visit Augusta tonight and continue later to Puerto Rico and then the Pacific coast.

The speaker was introduced by Maynard Ashworth, of Columbus, district governor of the 165th district of Rotary.

Rotarians attending the meeting were from the Tennesse, Milledgeville, Columbus, Albany, Moultrie, Eastman and Macon clubs.

FI. FA. SITUATION BELIEVED BETTER
Sale of $500,000 in Levies May Be Unnecessary, Officials Say.

As Fulton county tax collections continue to climb, County Auditor James L. Respass and Tax Collector T. Earle Suttles revealed yesterday that there is every reason to believe the county will not have to sell $500,000 in 1939 fi. fas. as had been anticipated.

While both officials said the picture was much brighter, they were unable to say just what amount of fi. fas. it will be necessary to sell in order to give the county sufficient funds on which to operate in 1940.

The collector's office still is busily engaged in working mail payments which continue unusually heavy. Suttles said yesterday's total which passed through the cash register was $824,821. He said it was the largest single day on record.

Meanwhile, representatives of two firms which plan to purchase fi. fas. are checking records in the collector's office, preparatory to buying whatever amount of 1939 executions are offered for sale.

CITY, COUNTY HEADS MEET AT BANQUET

Officials Display Plenty of Co-operation in Attack on Steaks.

By HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
Atlanta and Fulton county officials last night jumped the gun on "consolidations," displayed considerable co-operation in attacking steaks and buried their differences at the banquet table.

Judge Robert Carpenter, of the civil court of Fulton county, was host to more than 100 members of council, county commissioners, judges, city and county department heads, solicitors and other officials at an annual dinner at an Atlanta hotel.

Everybody who really rates politically in the two governments was there or sent his excuses—good ones, too. It was a kind of who's who of local politics, and lurking not far back in the minds of a vast majority of those present was a long-range survey of 1940 political possibilities, because practically every elective officer in the two governments will be before the voters in next year's primaries.

Although speeches were barred, all guests were introduced by Carpenter, who acted in a dual role, host and toastmaster.

As guests were presented, the crowd gave each one a good natured razzing, accompanied by the "boos" which will be heard as candidates take the stumps in 1940.

It was a sort of gridiron affair, spiced with good humor and camaraderie.

Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Mabel Abbott McNeill, county treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Ivy, city warden; Miss Fannie Hinton, librarian, and Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, member of the Georgia legislature from Fulton County, had seats of honor as women department heads.

One speaker introduced Mrs. Carpenter "as the real judge of the civil court" and "Carpenter as a stooge."

CELEBRATION HELD AT STONE MOUNTAIN

Citizens Celebrate 100th Anniversary of Charter at Gala Ball.

Residents of Stone Mountain climaxed the 100th anniversary celebration of their historic little town last night with a gala ball in the new auditorium-gymnasium.

Approximately 250 citizens danced to the rhythm of modern music, but their conversation was mainly about the almost legendary history of the town and the mountain which has become known as "the biggest solid rock in the world."

According to the legends, the first white owner of the mountain, a man named Clark, of Athens, Ga., traded the property for a new pair of boots to replace the pair he wore out on his long walk to inspect land given him for valor displayed in fighting the Indians. A mule was thrown in for good measure, the old settlers say.

Another favorite story is that Jesse Lanford, one of the early settlers, refused in about 1825 or 1830 to trade his rifle and a silk handkerchief for the mountain, contending that he could shoot squirrels and rabbits with the gun, but didn't have any use for the solid mass of rock.

The anniversary celebration got under way yesterday morning and continued throughout the day. Every part of the town was decorated with bright Christmas lights, even to the water tower which could be seen for several miles.

When the town was first chartered December 21, 1839, it was situated at the base of the mountain, but later was moved westward about a mile. The town originally was known as "New Gibraltar." Soldiers in Sherman's army burned the village railroad depot on their march to the sea.

The mountain has become a famous scenic spot in this section and annually attracts thousands of tourists. Douglas McCurdy, president of the Stone Mountain Progressive Club, said the centennial celebration was the climax of a two-week clean-up campaign in which every part of the town was made spic-and-span.

Eagles' Goodreault Out With Grippe

ANDOVER, Mass., Dec. 21.—(P) Grippe put a third Boston College regular, Right End Gene Goodreault, out of action today and hampered Coach Frank Leahy's double workouts for the Eagles' Cotton Bowl football engagement with Clemson.

Goodreault remained in bed, as did Fullback Pete Cignetti, Left End Dick Harrison and Bill Griffin, a second string tackle, when the squad reported for the light morning workout. During the afternoon drill, Leahy drove his players through a long scrimmage, most of which was devoted to polishing the Eagles' running attack.

Clemson Takes All Squad on Bowl Trip

CLEMSON, S. C., Dec. 21.—(P) Clemson's entire football squad will make the trip to the Cotton Bowl. Thirty-three players will leave here at 1 p. m., Christmas Day for Dallas, and 18 others will leave December 30. The Tigers put in two hours of hard work today as Head Coach Jess Neely gave his entire gridiron machinery a complete overhauling, with emphasis on protection for punters and passers, blocking on running plays, pass offense and defense and dummy scrimmage against the Notre Dame shift. Shad Bryant, handicapped in recent practices by a sore throat, was in good shape today and handled punts in the safety position.

RECORD NUMBER. AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 21.—A record number of over 800 entered Auburn's tenth annual cake race this year and a record number of 463 finished. The 1939 cake race over a 2.7 mile course was won by a local youngster, John Ball, who set a new mark of 14.05.6 in winning ace honors. Unless excused by the college physician, all freshmen are required to enter Auburn's cake races.

NEXT HOME GAME. AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 21.—Next home game for Auburn's basketball team is a Southeastern Conference clash with Vanderbilt. The Tigers and Commodores, who meet in Nashville on January 11, tie up in a return scrap in Alumni Gymnasium at Auburn Saturday night, January 20, at 7:30.

Vols Given Hysterical Farewell on Departure for Rose Bowl

Things you might like to see but very likely won't happen in the good year 1940:

The Yankees dethroned as public baseball "enemy" No. 1. Connie Mack, the grand old man, realizing, at 77, a dream of another pennant in the Yankees' (American) league.

Joe Louis extended to five rounds in defense of his world heavyweight boxing title.

Max Baer and seven other fellows—or eight wrestlers—in a bout with Gargantua the Great... winner take all.

Tony Galento, the cheerful little "beer-fell," admitting that some of his opponents like Louis, for instance, are pretty fair country fighters.

Ferdinand feigning modesty. And I do mean feign. Certain alumni groups coming to the sudden realization that winning, in football, isn't everything. Ask old Ferd some time; he went to Oglethorpe.

All football teams on pretty much the same plane for the coaches' sake. That is, a season with every team losing at least one game. (And it might happen.)

Fishermen and bird-dog people breaking down and telling the truth about their catches and pet dogs—but that might be too shocking, at that. Should come over a gradual period.

Baseball managers with or without families giving a little more consideration—in a great many cases.

Umpires giving the fans the old Bronx cheer.

Earl Mann frowning—just once in a while.

Major Trammell Scott praising setters... his first love.

Charlie Jordan expressing a fondness for pointers... which he never loved.

And Joe Engel, the Barnum of the Bushes, waging a determined defense of the 1939 Southern league pennant with all those ex-Crackers.

SHORT BUT SWEET, HUH?

Suggesting that the oil company which will broadcast the Louis-Godoy fight by short wave may have a chance to spread a little oil in the preliminaries, L. C. Davis, who does a bit of sports rhyming for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, observes:

"This short wave broadcasting doubtless is all right, But which will be shorter, the wave or the fight?"

The idea is, perhaps, that Louis always did think it was better to give than to receive. And, while oil people are prone, now and then, to come in with gushers, they probably will have to be content with the gushing of the radio boys—while it lasts.

GETTING TO THE POINT.

RANGERS MAKE 214 NOV. CASES

Increased activity in defense of Georgia's fish and game was reflected today in a report by Wild Life Director Charlie Elliott that 214 cases were made in November on charges of violating the conservation laws.

These arrests, made by the wild life division's 66 uniformed rangers throughout the state, compared with 145 made in September and October and the three-month total of 349 was far higher than that of the same three months of 1938, Elliott said. Fifty-eight of those accused already have been convicted, he added.

In addition to the arrests, the rangers checked 7,378 licenses and organized more than 30 game clubs since the hunting season started in September.

CAFEGO WILL BE READY, ASSERTS TRAINER O'BRIEN

Ace Takes Part in Scrimmage But Limp Is Still Noticeable.

By DON WHITEHEAD.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The crowd roared and the trumpets blared today to give Tennessee's conquering football heroes a hysterical farewell on their Rose Bowl crusade.

The grinning, embarrassed players shoved through a huge crowd of admirers into the Southern railway station, kissed parents and sweethearts good-bye, and clambered aboard their special train to settle down for the long haul to Pasadena where they will clash with the Southern California Trojans New Year's Day.

The train pulled out of the station at 3 p. m., carrying a squad of 35 players, managers, a corps of newspapermen, and a few football-tough camp followers who will uphold the off-the-gridiron cause in California until the main body of Tennessee fans arrives next week.

GREAT FANFARE. No army ever went forth to battle with greater fanfare or more raucous, enthusiastic acclaim from the populace. The boys carried the hopes of a Rose Bowl victory that Tennesseans have nourished for many years, and the home folk didn't want them to forget it.

The team hurried to the station after a spirited drill in which Head Coach Bob Neyland sent a third team armed with Trojan plays against his No. 1 and No. 2 teams in a bruising 30-minute scrimmage.

And the parting word from Trainer Mickey O'Brien was that George Cafego, ace tailback, "will be ready to play."

NOTICEABLE LIMP. Cafego took part in the brief scrimmage, but didn't get into the rough work as he played the safety position on defense and tossed passes on the offense. He was never tackled hard and a noticeable limp remained in his running.

The first teams stopped the "Trojan" attack both by air and land, and Van Thompson—third-string tailback masquerading as the Trojan star, Greenville Lansdell—was never able to connect with his passes against the tight Volunteer defense which hasn't yielded a point in their last 15 games.

The Volunteers will arrive in Los Angeles at 1 p. m. Sunday in time for a quiet Christmas Eve celebration. En route they will stop at Greenville and El Paso, Texas, for brief workouts.

Warm Sunshine Greets Trojan Drill

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Warm sunshine poured down on Southern California's Trojan football team today, and hopes were high that fair weather would continue through New Year's day and the engagement with Tennessee in the Rose Bowl.

Southern California has been fortunate in weather breaks this year. The Trojans have not played a game under bad conditions.

Today's practice continued along the same lines as during the week, with Coach Howard Jones relying on dummy scrimmage to keep the squad in shape.

THOMAS CASE RESTS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—The Illinois Athletic Commission today continued to January 5 its hearing into charges by Heavyweight Harry Thomas that he "threw" two fights.

VOLS ARE ROSE BOWL BOUND

Christmas Gift in Sportland

Old Man Kringle, on your travel from the snows,
Old Man Kringle, where the blasting north wind blows,
Bring us back more charity, more friendship and more faith—
Bring us back a fellowship that isn't yet a wraith—
Bring us back the sporting way, where sportsmen still belong—
Bring us back the grip of hand—bring us back a song.

Old Man Kringle, as you start the northland flight,
Bring us back the fibre that we need to face the fight.
Life is full of bitterness, of sorrow set on fire,
Bring us back the stuff it takes to scramble to the wire.
Bring us back the chance to show that right must conquer wrong—
But don't forget the fellowship—and don't forget the song.

Invading Tennesseans

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—Five thousand Tennesseans are expected to be on hand for their Rose Bowl tussle against the University of Southern California. This is a reasonable estimate, for Tennesseans are a restless, roving invading bunch. By plane, train, bus, motor, hitchhiking or maybe by stilts they soon will be pouring in.

Long ago 3,000 Tennessee riflemen left their native habitat to wreck the British at King's Mountain, N. C. As far back as 1815 over 4,000 Tennessee riflemen marched with General Jackson, Old Hickory, to mow down General Pakenham and the British at New Orleans.

Sam Houston wandered away from Tennessee to start the new destiny of Texas. D. A. V. e Crockett wound up at the Alamo.

Tennessee sent more volunteers into the Civil War strife, North and South, than any state in the nation. The Volunteer State was correctly named.

Now, with full faith in Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee football team, they are heading soon for Pasadena. I understand a good many hundreds are already in motion by the open road. Their faith in Tennessee's football destiny is well justified. They have seen this Volunteer outfit win 23 consecutive games, dating back to 1937.

In the last two years they have seen Tennessee pile up 505 points against 16 hostile markers. They have seen their team hold the enemy scoreless in their last 15 games. It takes a lot of able football to build a record of this brand. Especially a world of football defense.

TENNESSEE FOOTBALL HISTORY. Most of the famous Tennessee stars from past and present years come from East Tennessee homes. There was McEver, rated by the late Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt, and Bob Neyland, "as the best running back I ever saw." There was Bobby Dodd, one of the game's all-star backs, now backfield coach at Georgia Tech. There was Beattie Feathers, an eight-year star with the pros. I could go on indefinitely.

They come from Knoxville's near-by hills and valleys—they are lean, rugged and hard, and nearly always fast. "Lean men, brown men—burnt with sun and wind." Most of them range from 185 to 195 pounds. Most of them stand around 6 feet. They are not giants. Tennessee rarely has anyone above 200 pounds. Neyland wants speed—line speed as well as backfield speed. Speed and more speed.

Most of the Major's men are athletes. There are four or five Golden Glovers on this present squad, three ring champions on the college side. They have at least one rare football virtue. Each one tries to make every

EASTERN STARS IN 'PRESS' DRILL UPON ARRIVAL

Delegation Visits Shriners' Hospital, Beneficiary of Jan. 1 Game.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—

(AP)—Twenty-two husky young men—some of the finest football talent in the eastern half of the country—arrived today to begin preparations for the East-West charity game New Year's Day.

The Eastern squad was headed by Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Fred Swan of Temple. Kerr, dean of the staff of mentors, told interviewers "We have a good team. It lacks big names but it is well balanced and stronger than many of the teams I have brought west in the past."

The eastern delegation participated in a social program which included a visit to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, beneficiary of the game's net proceeds. A short workout, mainly for the press photographers, was held in the afternoon.

The western team, coached by Orin Hollingbery of Washington State College, and Lawrence "Biff" Jones of Nebraska, assembled yesterday. It worked out today and was to leave tonight for Palo Alto for the rest of its training.

The westerners hold a weight advantage, averaging 202 pounds, compared to 195 pounds for their rivals.

A sell-out crowd of more than 50,000 is predicted.

ATLANTA YOUTHS FLOCK TO LINKS

With the closing of Atlanta's schools for the annual Christmas holidays, the youngsters swarmed on the various golf courses bright and early Thursday morning.

East Lake had its share with Billy Cope, former city junior champion; Woods Staton, Dan Yates, Georgia's amateur champion; Alan Yates, George Sargent, Jr., Jack Sargent, and Ross Hanahan.

George Berry, Atlanta's junior champion, led the parade over the West End course. Capital City and Druid Hills also were dotted with high school and college youths, getting in a few rounds under unusually fine weather conditions.

The city's many municipal courses reported a decided increase over the same period of previous years.

Charlie Yates shot a sensational sub par 68 on the No. 1 East Lake course despite one of the most unusual cross winds late Wednesday afternoon.

Yates played with R. A. McCord, Scott Hudson, Jr., and L. B. Taylor.

Four Golfers Share East Lake Bogey

Barney Barrett, E. R. Partridge, A. C. Bromberg and Jack Robertson were winners Thursday afternoon in the regular midweek blind bogey on the East Lake courses. The winning score was 75.

Sharing second place, one stroke away from the winners, were: L. A. Scott, Hugh Burgess, T. A. Martin, Charlie Edens, A. Buck, H. K. Garges, J. H. Irwin, Travis Johnson, Charlie Yates and Francis Spears.

DOWN THE ALLEYS

Mrs. Estelle Warrington, who has figured in the spotlight often in winning major pin events staged on local and out-of-town alleys, hit the little ducklets for a powerful series of 372 Wednesday evening in the Ladies Commercial league as she gathered in games of 123, 130 and 119 to boost her ever-soaring average.

Rudy Lehman, genial secretary of the Industrial bowling league, hit the pins for games of 89, 124 and 113, with the 124 being the top single game and the 326 series being one pin shy of the top series mark. Jack

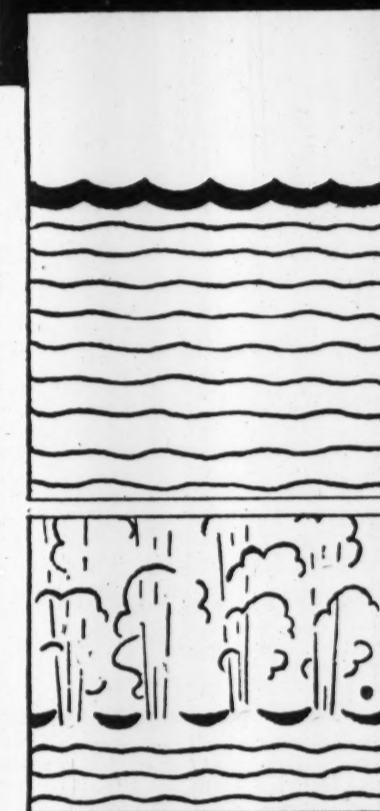

Pratt, president of the league, had 327 for the loop's three-game individual high mark.

Dot Morris had games of 114, 121 and 127 as she finished in runner-up position with a 362 count for the three games as the Atlanta Paper Company team won three games from Gaylord.

Charlie Hall, president of the Atlanta Duck Pin Association, finds that his association duties do not demand nearly as much time as the fact that four different

11 Tech Seniors End Careers Against Tigers in Orange Bowl

MANY OF THEM BEGAN AS SUBS ON RED DEVILS

Last Atlanta Scrimmage Set Today; Team Leaves Tomorrow.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Eleven battle-scarred Tech veterans, many of whom were never given more than one chance in a thousand to ever play, will end their college gridiron careers in the Orange Bowl.

Nearly all of the seniors served time on the Red Devils. They were the lowest of sophomores and now are the main spark-plugs of Tech's most successful eleven since the 1928 Golden Tornado.

Heading the list of seniors is Captain Buck Murphy, who put Jesup, Ga., on the map with his slashing tackling and reckless blocking. Jacket coaches will tell you this stubby-haired lad is the best line-buckler they have had in many years and one of the best of all time.

Then there is Billy Gibson, alternate captain, who may not be able to play much against Missouri in the Orange Bowl. Gibson was a reserve end when he came to Tech, but made a successful debut as a back and really came into his own last year as a tailback. He starred at wingback this season until put out of action with a knee injury before the Alabama game.

Howard Ector, probably the most valuable man on the squad, also graduates. He calls signals and is one of the best quarterbacks ever to play at Tech. His line-cracking ability from the full-back post is extremely valuable. He, too, is a great defensive player.

Roane Beard, center; Jim Clay, end; Ed Fain, tackle; Edson Luckey, tackle; Bo Richards, guard; Buck Shaw, back; Earl Wheby, back, and Charlie Wood, tackle, will also have to be replaced.

The Jackets will be hardest hit at tackles and in the backfield. Fundamentals were stressed again yesterday as the Yellow Jackets were sent through their first morning drill in preparation for the Missouri game. Coach Bill Alexander had his backs polish their passing attack and the linemen were sent through a hard session on blocking.

It looks as if the Techs may work on the same theory as Missouri—that a good offense is the best defense.

The final Atlanta scrimmage will be held this morning. An unusually hard workout is expected as Saturday's drill will be nothing more than a lot of running to get legs loosened up for the long train ride.

'WHEN GOOD FELLOWS GET TOGETHER' AT TECH

More than 200 friends of Georgia Tech turned out last night for the Alumni Association's testimonial dinner for Coach Bill Alexander and his football staff.

Tech Football System Is Original--Col. Jones

Coach Alexander Called Successor to Knute Rockne at Tech Banquet at A. A. C.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Finely-spun glass chandeliers tingled with delight at the thunderous ovation accorded Coach Bill Alexander and his staff by more than 200 friends of Georgia Tech last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Never has Atlanta seen such an enthusiastic expression of appreciation than was accorded the Yellow Jacket coaches at a banquet sponsored solely for that purpose.

Colonel Bob Jones rendered a sole-stirring speech that constantly brought listeners to their feet with waves of applause.

ORIGINAL SYSTEM. "Tech today has emerged with a system—a system all its own," Colonel Jones said, "and that system is due to one man and only one man—Alexander."

"He learned his football by playing it the hard way. And in 1919, when we had to get a coach, there was only one man for the job. Alexander then started the Tech system."

"Tech today, gentlemen, has the results of hard, intelligent work—hard, intelligent consideration."

Colonel Jones spoke of Coach Alex's ability as a leader, as a natural teacher and as a student of football.

"He is recognized the country over as the successor to Knute Rockne. No one ever knew any more football than Alexander."

Jack Troy, sports editor of The Constitution, presented Coach Alex with the Nashville Banner's plaque, given each year to the outstanding coach in the Southeastern conference. The 13 coaches of the conference vote on who has done the best job, thus making Alex the coaches' coach for 1939.

Thomas C. Law, member of the Scottish Rite Hospital charity game committee, thanked Coach Alexander for making the annual game possible and presented him with a basket of flowers to give Mrs. Alexander.

Coach Alex made a short response and said: "I appreciate very deeply the things Colonel Jones has said about me, the boys on the staff and the faculty."

PARKER TOASTMASTER. W. A. Parker, president of the Georgia Tech National Alumni Association, served as toastmaster and got things off with a bang by stating "the sole and only purpose of this function is to honor the Tech coaching staff."

He first introduced newspapermen present and then Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, and other faculty members of the athletic board.

Assistant members of the coaching staff, Norris "Lucky" Teter, Dean, Glenn Cushing, J. Roy McArthur, Allen Wilcox, Robert E. Lee Dodd, Mack Tharpe, Claude Bond and Burton and Porto were introduced by Parker.

Alexander is in his 20th year

SUMTER, S. C., Dec. 21.—Willing Dr. Sam, white and lemon pointer dog, owned and handled by Dr. Sam Orr Black, Spartanburg, S. C., won the members' all-age stake here today in the South Carolina field trials.

Hillbright Peerless Equipoise, setter dog, owned by M. G. Dudley, of Greenville, and handled by Major Trammell Scott, of Atlanta, was second. Maplecock Jake, pointer dog, owned and handled by R. Z. Cates, of Spartanburg, was third. Virginia Boy, pointer dog, owned and handled by Dr. D. R. Driggers, of New Brunswick, N. J., was fourth. All found handled birds.

The members' derby was finished this afternoon. First was won by Homerun Dixie Beauty, pointer bitch, owned and handled by Miss Claudia Phelps, Aiken, S. C.; second, Itchaway Norias Ike, pointer, owned by R. W. Woodruff, handled by Trammell Scott; third, Milligan's Beautiful Topsy, pointer, owned and handled by Dr. Black.

OCALA HUNTERS KILL 205 BUCKS

OCALA, Fla., Dec. 21.—(P)—The kill of December hunting in the game management area of the Ocala National Forest totals 205 bucks, District Ranger J. W. Cooper reported today.

Since the season opened hunters have bagged 3,000 grey and fox squirrels on the area, Cooper said, and estimated that 500 quail had been killed.

The deer kill compares with 127 during the season last year, according to the ranger. He said his office had issued 1,550 permits for hunting on the forest this year, against 1,167 for 1938.

A large number of hunters, perhaps the largest of the season, is expected in the area Saturday. "I imagine we will have 1,200 hunters in the woods on Saturday," Cooper said.

To See Cotton Bowl, Listen to Rose Bowl

HOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 21.—(P)—Governor Bob Jones decided today to attend the Sun Bowl football game at El Paso, Tex., but said he would take a radio to listen to the Tennessee-Southern California game.

A native of Tennessee, Jones had been invited to sit in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., with Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee.

The Arizona governor decided in favor of the Sun Bowl because Arizona State Teachers' College of Tempe will play Catholic University of Washington, D. C., and his daughter, Kathryn, will be grand marshal of the Sun Carnival parade.

Chicago Withdraws From Grid Ranks

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(P)—Trustees of the University of Chicago voted today to withdraw from intercollegiate football.

After a succession of losing seasons, with the once mighty Maroons at the bottom of the Big Ten conference's football standings, the trustees announced they would ask that the university be released from gridiron games scheduled for 1940 and 1941.

Surprised, Coach Clark Shaughnessy made no statement.

The trustees said the future status of Coach Shaughnessy hadn't been determined.

The Maroons, who helped pioneer midwestern football under the tutelage of Amos Alonzo Stagg, have been going downhill in recent years.

The 1939 eleven won only two games from Wabash and Oberlin. Michigan defeated Chicago by an 85-to-0 rout and Harvard and Ohio State by identical 61-to-0 debacles. A year ago Chicago didn't win a game and tied only Bradley.

CANTON INVADERS SOUTH. CANTON, Ga., Dec. 21.—The Canton High basketball team left today for south Georgia on the first of their annual series of invasions of south Georgia cage courts. The Greenies will return Sunday.

The Canton quintet played Rhine Thursday night, faces Sycamore Friday night and Brunswick High Saturday night.

Making the trip are Superintendent N. R. Haworth, Coach D. B. Carroll, Lyman Holbrook, Herschel Anderson, W. A. Adams, Frank Smithwick, Fred Haley, Nolen Manous, Robert Bell, William Garner, Ezra Tippens and J. L. Pinyan.

COLUMBUS BEATS VALDOSTA. VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 21.—In a fast court battle here last night, the Columbus High school quintet triumphed over Valdosta's Wildcats, 35-22. This was the third game of the season for Coach Sam Joe Robinson's Cats, and their second loss.

as coach at Tech. This year's team is co-champion of the Southeastern conference and will play Missouri in the Orange Bowl January 1 in Miami.

Thomasville's Letchas Boys Are Real Athletes

Charlie Jumped From Sandlots to Majors in Four Years; Gus Is Gridiron Star.

By ALBERT RILEY JR.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 21.—(P)—The year 1939 should go down in their memories as an eventful year for the Letchas boys—Charlie and Gus—an athletic pair of brothers.

Take Charlie's story as a starter. The 24-year-old "Green-eyed Greek" was a football and basketball star at Thomasville High school five years ago with an ability to make footballs, basketballs and baseballs behave the way he wanted them to perform.

After a fling at amateur and sand lot baseball, Charlie showed such promise that he broke into professional baseball at second base with the Thomasville Orioles in the first year of the Georgia-Florida League. That was in 1935. Well, after three seasons in Class D ball, his last two under manager Cy Morgan, Letchas had developed into such a fine infielder he made the league's all-star team and moved up to Spartanburg, S. C., in the Sally League for 1938.

GOES TO LOOKOUTS. When the 1939 season rolled around, Charlie was sent to the Chattanooga Lookouts' spring training camp. He crashed into the lineup of the Southern Association club and stayed there, doing his part well as the Lookouts went on to win the pennant. And when the Southern season was over Charlie went on up to the majors to finish the campaign with the Phillies.

Now it is a fair bet that Charlie may stick with the Phillies next year, and, if it wasn't enough to reach the majors in 1939, Charlie made the year more eventful this month by being married to lovely Miss Ruby Eason, a June graduate of Thomasville High School.

Kid brother Gus has not been idle. He has been grabbing himself a flock of football headlines.

TRIPLE-THREAT. Gus, 180-pound triple-threat senior halfback, was the spark of the Thomasville High Bulldogs, who lost only one game this season and were one of the best teams in the S. G. F. A. and the state. A fast, powerful, elusive runner with a deceptive change of pace, galloping Gus scored 19 touchdowns and 118 of the bulldogs' total of 177 points. He tossed the ball for three other touchdowns and ran for five "ghost" scores that were called back.

He was the best punter in the conference and by a unanimous vote made the sports writers' all-star team.

Missouri Departs for Orange Bowl After Two-Hour Workout

PASS OFFENSE GIVEN STRESS IN FINAL DRILL

Coach Faurot Rumored Dicker for New Grid Post.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 21.—(AP) Their teeth chattering, both from excitement and the winter's first cold snap, Missouri's Tigers entrained late today for Miami and the Orange Bowl football contest with Georgia Tech on New Year's Day.

At the station were the few students still in town despite the official beginning of the Christmas vacation at noon. They knew they were sending forth a good gridiron representative, but they were doubtful how much longer they would have the coach who helped make it so.

Don Faurot, youthful Tiger mentor, admitted today he spent Wednesday in Omaha conferring with a representative of a university seeking a football coach. He refused to name the school and made no comment when it was pointed out that Stanford, now minus a gridiron tutor, played basketball at Lincoln, Neb., only 40 miles from Omaha, Wednesday night.

Faurot parried all questions with "the Orange Bowl game comes first." His contract at Missouri expires December 31, a day before the Miami battle.

The Tigers' departure followed a two-hour drill in which pass offense was stressed. Blocking and tackling fundamentals also were reviewed in the brick workout, held at the 40 degree mark.

Line Coach Phil Bengston said the forwards showed the "most spirit any Missouri line has shown in my five years here." Captain Kenny Haas, missing at Tuesday's workout because of a cold, was active.

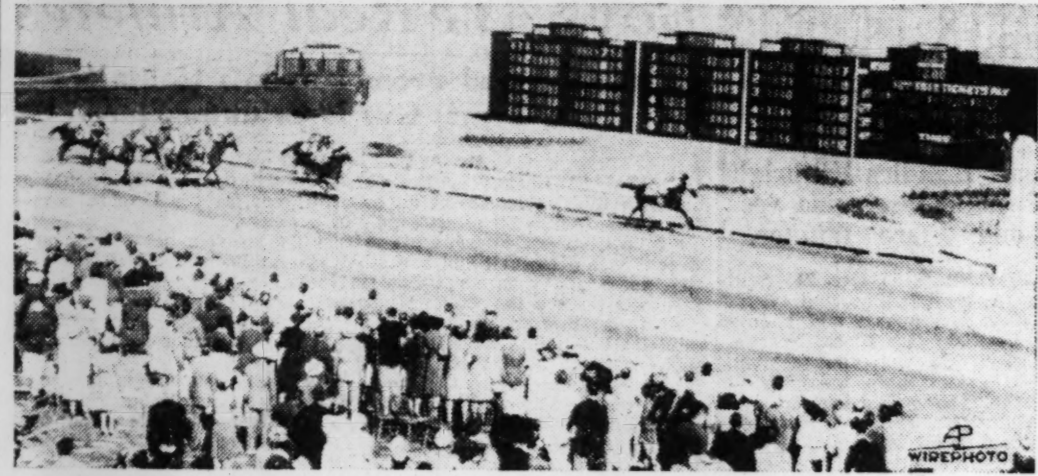

Only players missing were End Blaine Currence and Halfback Clay Cooper, who left earlier in the day for Missouri's two-day basketball invasion of St. Louis. The pair, regulars on the cage team, will compete in both games, then head south.

Paul Christman, Missouri's exponent of both the forward pass and the forward march, was more concerned over his wardrobe than over the game.

"It isn't going to be an ice cream social. We all know that. I hope it is warm enough for us to sweat well," he said, giving his crew haircut a final brush.

Manager Has Task Pleasing Vol Whims

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21.—(AP)—One of the busiest fellows in town today was Bob Ellridge, Tennessee's football manager, who has the thankless task of seeing that all those little whims of his favorite athletes are satisfied.

For instance, it will be Ellridge's job to see that Bob Fox's broken golf stick is aboard the Vol Rose Bowl special—Fox won't go anywhere unless accompanied by his "lucky piece." He left it behind when the Orangemen went to Kentucky, but sent back for it before game time.

Another item that must be aboard is a pair of white shoe laces for Fullback Fred Newman; he'd be lost without them. And Major Bob Neyland? Well, rest assured his light grey double-breasted suit will be in one of his traveling bags.

Don Herring Named 39's Best Sportsman

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Round Table Club of Spokane, Wash., named Don Herring, Princeton University football player, its "outstanding sportsman of the year." His leg was amputated after an injury this fall.

The organization is the one which annually, in lighter vein, conducts a nationwide "moaning contest" for college coaches. The club's selection was disclosed here last night by Marvin (Bud) Ward, Spokane, national amateur golf champion.

who, in turn, has awarded it to this party of the third part. Here's the idea—

"ALL SET."

"'Twas the week before Christmas and up at the pole Kris Kringle was dressed for his regular role; The ground and the roofs were all covered with snow, And the reindeer were prancing and ready to go.

"But Santa Claus still was inclined to delay The loading and packing of toys in his sleigh; With his ear to the phone he was waiting to hear From Franklin when Christmas was coming this year.

"Then over long-distance there came a clear voice With tidings that made all the kiddies rejoice, And Santa Claus cried, with his face all aglow, 'Twenty-fifth of December! Okay, let 'er go!'"

SPORTS YEAR'S BIGGEST INJUSTICE.

While a national poll listed Ernie Lombardi's "catnap" while the Yankees ran home in the final game of the World's Series as the sports year's biggest oddity, it is a fact that the gravest injustice of the season is being done.

Chances are Lombardi must leave Cincinnati because of the incident. And that, too, is tragic.

What happened when all those Yankees scrambled across the plate was explained very clearly by Paul Derringer, the Reds' great pitcher, during the recent minor league meeting in Cincinnati.

Derringer told everyone who would listen that Keller hit Lombardi in the side with his shoulder as he drove into the plate, and Lombardi, in great pain, was unable to rise. It was apparent from the stands that he was just sitting down enjoying the show. But Lombardi, a fine catcher and a powerful hitter, must suffer because fan sentiment in Cincinnati has been built up against him.

Champion Woman Baseball Scorer Is From Atlanta

By The Associated Press.

Mrs. Lucy Caldwell, now of Columbus, Ohio, bolsters her claim to the title of world champion woman baseball scorer with the perfect observation that "women are always best at keeping track of things."

A former Atlanta resident, Mrs. Caldwell is visiting relatives here for the Christmas holidays.

Official score-keeper for the Columbus Saturday Afternoon league, her decisions are respected by players and spectators alike, and no protests come in the wake of her rulings.

Once she was struck by a carelessly tossed bat and remained unconscious seven hours. Five days later she was back on the sidelines keeping score.

Born in a log cabin in the Rocky mountains, Mrs. Caldwell spent almost a quarter of a century in Atlanta. Her maiden name was Caldwell, and after her marriage to a man of the same name, she made her home in Caldwell, Ohio.

GIRL SHATTERS PISTOL RECORD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(U.P.)

The National Rifle Association announced tonight that 17-year-old Gloria Jacobs, of Woodland, Cal., had set a new world pistol record, besting by one point the mark established two years ago by G-man Walter Walsh.

The association said that Miss Jacobs, who scored 299 out of a possible 300 points over the difficult 30-shot Camp Perry course, is the first girl or woman to hold a world pistol record. She is the daughter of a California state police officer.

Miss Jacobs fired the new record on the range of the San Francisco traffic police at Fort Fuston, December 17.

An old bell in the ancient market house in Fayetteville, N. C., still rings the curfew at 9 o'clock each night.

TROPICAL PARK SETS RECORDS IN RACE OPENER

11,431 Fans Wager $276,054; Discobolo Wins 1st; High One, Inaugural.

By H. J. ARONSTAM
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 21.—(UP)—New attendance and betting records were set today when a crowd of 11,431 thronged Tropical Park for the opening of Florida's 99-day racing season and saw Sidney Prince's High One win the $1,000 inaugural purse.

The big gelded son of High Cloud and Beloved One, a 9-1 shot, brought the opening crowd to its feet by thundering from behind in the final furlong to win by a neck over Mrs. L. Palladino's Remarkable. The winning time for the three-quarters of a mile was 1:12-2-5.

The celebrity-studded crowd that jammed the club house and grandstand here sent attendance and betting records tumbling. Attendance was more than 2,500 over the opening day figure a year ago and the mutuels handle was $276,054, an increase of $70,608.

The record opening supported predictions that this would be Florida's best racing season since the boom days.

B. F. Whitaker's Discobolo romped off with the opening race to become the first winner of the new season and was coupled with G. Ring's Ringie, winner of the second race, for a $102 daily double.

Longest shot to come in was the H. and H. Stock Farm's Paddy, winner of the sixth, which paid $49.50.

SEMI-STOCK CARS RACE HERE JAN. 1

First world's championship semi-stock car auto race meet ever sanctioned by the International Stock Car Auto Racing Association will be held at Lakewood on Monday, January 1, when 1940 sport activities will start with a bang at the Southeastern Fair's mile track.

Sunday, December 31, will be utilized as a qualifying day. Both non-stock and strictly stock cars will be permitted to compete, and the race will be from 40 to 70 miles, the distance to be decided later.

The championship titles of Harley Taylor in I. S. C. A. R. A. as world's champion; Red Singleton, as national champion; Jap Brogdon as southern champion, and Bob Block, as state champion, as stock car racers will not be affected.

In semi-stock car racing the owners and entries are allowed to do anything they desire to cars, gears, carburetors, superchargers and motors to increase speed, but the car entered can not have its wheelbase or tread-distance changed from the original model.

Events will be open to the world, and the ultimate number of cars to start will be determined later. Harley Taylor was winner of the 50-mile stock car race held at Lakewood on December 3, while Jap Brogdon, of Chamblee, was leading winner on Thanksgiving.

All entrants in the Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and December 3 stock car races will be granted eligibility to start December 31 without payment of entry fee, and the first 10 entrants will be guaranteed starting positions in the finals on January 1.

With a record of 13 victories in 16 starts so far this season, the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. Triangles will seek another triumph on the road tonight when they play the Covington A. C. at Covington, Ga.

The Triangles will meet at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. for the trip.

The Triangles, representing the junior division of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A., will meet the Spartanburg Y. M. C. A. Juniors Tuesday night, at the local "Y" small gym. The Spartanburg quintet is on its annual winter trip.

A contest against Gasco in the Civic league next Wednesday and another at Porterdale, Ga., on Saturday, December 30, against the Porterdale All-Stars, will complete the Triangles' schedule before New Year's.

Here Is Correct Way To Pronounce Cafego

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21.

(P)—To whom it may concern: When talking about the chances of Tennessee's ace tailback, George Cafego, to play in the Rose Bowl football game New Year's Day, don't call him Ca-fee-go (Cap Fee).

His name is pronounced Caffego (with the accent on the Caff which rhymes with staff).

leagues call on him to bowl regularly with them each week.

J. McLeod, of the West End team, turned in a high single game of 135 and had a set of 352 to pace the First National Bank league Wednesday.

Jerry Norris, who is one of the individual leaders in the First National league this year, will be good material for the City or any other top average league next season as he is boosting his average consistently and is a splendid "team" man.

George Tyler, one of the outstanding bowlers of the city, has started scouting new material for a new team to put in a top average league for next season. George is planning to have his proteges work in secret practice several afternoons during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Frank McCready, of Decatur, had games of 103, 105 and 115 as she bowled with the Ansley hotel team in the Ladies Commercial league Wednesday evening.

KISS AFTER MIDNIGHT

Astrid, Icy at First, Asks Faith To Remain When She Rises to Leave

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

SYNOPSIS.

Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, leaves a New England village, makes her own way in New York and after two years furnishes an apartment with Gretchen Cole and is secretary to Walter Edmonds, vice president of a large firm. Gretchen, stylist in a big store, left an Ohio town after a shattered romance. At a party given by Edmonds and his wife Astrid, Faith meets Franz Braggonier, musician and composer, whom Astrid loves. Even before Faith meets Carl Edmonds, Walter's brother, a famous aviator, she is in love with him, but she despairs when Carl says he will never marry because of his roving hazardous life. Gretchen is promoted to Paris buyer and refuses to marry Philip Turner, but by accident they sail together to Paris and marry there. Young Michael Britton wants Walter's 15-year-old daughter, Sue to elope with him, she refuses, then is desperate when he says he will never see her again. Walter sends Faith to Florida with Sue and there Sue finds Michael. Walter goes alone to visit Sue and as he is rebuking himself for his feelings toward Faith, Astrid writes she is arranging a divorce. Carl appears, he rates Faith for taking Walter from Astrid, says he himself finally knew he loved her, but says a cold good-bye. Back home, Walter asks Faith to marry him. Sue phones Faith that she eloped with Michael but is alone then in a small town hotel. Faith phones Carl, he takes her there and they learn that Michael became angry when the minister's wife said Sue was too young to marry, told Sue he wanted her only because Walter would give him a "soft berth" and left. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

She paused and felt more composed when she resumed, "I don't know why you wish Walter and me to be closer unless it is to ease your own conscience. I haven't told Walter or Sue or Carl any of these things. And they are poisons to my eyes when I saw you in Franz Braggonier one day in a restaurant. Or that I believe all this, the lies and schemes and the divorce, is because of him. I couldn't hurt Walter more by telling him my suspicions. I couldn't separate brothers who are friends by telling Walter that Carl came to Florida and accused me of the ugly things you planted in his mind. Plots and schemes! I've lived with them since October! And I've tried to be the friend to Walter and Sue that you should have been. Love isn't the rule but the exception, the kind your husband and your daughter feel for you." Astrid interrupted coldly, "Are you going to marry Walter?" "Isn't that what you wanted? You didn't want to leave him alone. You wanted some one—me—I don't know why... perhaps because Sue and I are friends." "I asked you if you were going to marry him." "He has asked me to marry him when this is over." Astrid arose quickly and walked the length of the room to an ash tray where she smashed out her cigarette. Faith said, "I haven't told him I would or I wouldn't. With Carl despising me, it didn't matter much. And I'd rather be married to Walter than to anyone I know—except Carl. But I've signed no contract with Walter, made no promise, as you did when you married him. I haven't had his child and neglected her as you have neglected Sue." "Sue had love to give but no one to whom to give it. She gave it to a worthless boy. She couldn't tell the truth, she couldn't talk to her mother because her mother was never there or she was busy... and so Sue learned to lie, too. This little rich girl who was lonely and hurt tried to cover it up by being defiant and unconventional."

She lowered her voice. "You think that I'm a mechanical thing that works in your husband's office. But I'm a woman, too, and my love and my love are as important to me as yours are to you. Women like you, who take and give nothing, who use innocent people, spoil other lives, hurt and wound..." Astrid stood straight. For a moment she closed her eyes as if by closing them she could close her mind to the words she was hearing. Then she said, "And now I suppose you'll confess my sins to Walter and Sue and Carl! That will make you feel ever so much better, won't it?" Faith said, "They're yours, not mine. I've loved Carl from the moment I saw him and I've tried to be a friend to a bewildered young girl who had no real friend, and in Florida I tried to give Walter companionship and laughter and play. I'm not perfect, no one is, but I have been honest with your family. I didn't ask for it but suddenly I found myself being all the things you should have been to Walter and Sue. Why is it that people don't know how fortunate they are? I've discovered Walter's love for you, deep and strong and splendid and unselfish, and Sue's love for you, which you have never let her show you."

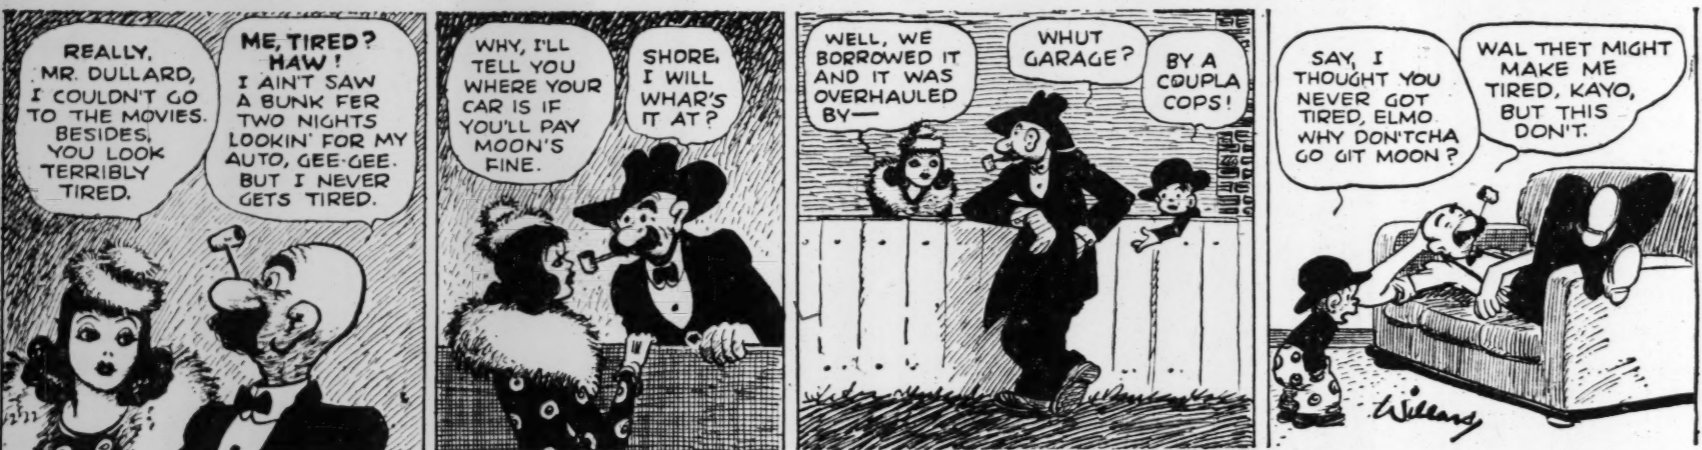

Astrid put her hands to her face and cried, "Oh, stop it! Stop saying these things!" and turned and fled to her bedroom. She could not tell Faith the truth. Nor would she ever tell any one that Franz had said with his usual suavity, "I fear that we have made a mistake, Astrid. We could not be happy, my dear. I have thought so much and I know that my life, the life of a musician and a foreigner, is not your life."

TARZAN—By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"WHY WON'T YOU BRING WARRIORS?" TARZAN DEMANDED, "BECAUSE KEYDO WILL FREE YOU." THE LAD GRINNED PROUDLY.

DELIGHTED WITH HIS ROLE AS RESCUER OF THE MIGHTY TARZAN, KEYDO UNFASTENED A WRIST.

THEN HAWQUO AWOKE!

"KEYDO," HE CRIED, "AWAY! I'LL KILL YOU!"
